Constitutionality in Question

Appellate Court Sets Budget Ruling

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The deeply slashed and much-maligned state budget is back in the court today, its constitutionality on the line.

The state Civil Service Employees Association, faced with thousands of employee layoffs due to the spending cutbacks, won a temporary victory in State Supreme Court Wednesday, when Justice Russell G. Hunt declared the $7.69-billion budget unconstitutional. Hunt based his finding on the fact that the budget did not contain itemized appropriations.

The decision is being appealed to the State Appellate Division which will hear the case later today.

The budget controversy this year poses a two-sided problem: the spending plan could be thrown out by the courts, necessitating the drafting of a new budget, or New York could face its first statewide strike of government employees.

Thus far, more than 1,000 of a scheduled 8,250 layoffs have been accomplished. A spokesman for the governor's office said that prior to the court case 1,700 persons had been given three weeks' termination notice or had finished working for the state.

Leaders of the union, which for bargaining purposes represents virtually all of the state's 157,000 employees, are to meet late today. They probably will review the outcome of balloting on a strike vote, spokesmen say, if the results are in by then.

Strikes by government employees are against the state's Public Employment Relations Law, the so-called Taylor Law.

Robert Guild, a bargaining specialist for the CSEA, said last week that returns were running three-to-one in favor of giving CSEA leaders authority to strike.

And, he added, if the courts uphold the budget, "the governor is going to see the biggest strike this state has ever had."

CSEA directors have urged members to grant them authority to strike in the event they feel a strike is warranted.

Should the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court reverse the Supreme Court ruling that the budget is unconstitutional, Dr. Theodore Wenzl, CSEA president, says the union will take its case to the state's highest court, the Court of Appeals, and will go as far as it can through higher courts to attain an ultimate victory.

Meanwhile, two other legal actions resulting from the budget are before the courts. Both resulted from layoffs.

In one case, 21 workers who lost their jobs with the abolished Office of Planning Coordination, sued to be rehired with the new Office of Planning Services.

They contend that a large number of high-ranking and highly paid officials were retained in the new agency who were not under civil service.

They argue, too, that the state failed to provide a system whereby persons with long service could take lower-grade jobs in other agencies. Moreover, they said, the state used inequities in the Civil Service laws regarding discharge regulations for women and non-veterans.

In the other case, 106 men who lost their jobs when the Civil Defense Commission was abolished obtained a court order last week to have their positions restored. But the state promptly filed a notice of appeal, which automatically placed the order in a state of suspension, pending arguments on the case.

Some functions of the commission were transferred to other agencies, along with 30 of 174 positions. Thirty-four positions had been vacant.

In their court action the employees contend that the layoffs violated Civil Service regulations on seniority.

Those two cases, however, are in the legal shadow of the budget's constitutionality.

In his ruling against the budget, Hunt was critical of Gov. Rockefeller and the legislature.

"The governor, under the constitution, may not submit lump-sum budgets and appropriations bills and the legislators may not enact lump-sum appropriations," he said.

Gov. Rockefeller originally submitted an $8.5-billion budget to the legislature that among other things, called for 4,400 new jobs.

In an effort to eliminate some of the governor's proposed tax increases, the legislature cut $758 million from the Rockefeller version of the budget.

Bonn Sets New Action To Curb Dollar Flow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

West Germany took new action today to drive out the flood of dollars it contends is fueling inflation. The Bundesbank, West Germany's central bank, restricted interest payments on deposits of foreign currency.

The Bonn government on Sunday night in effect revalued the mark upward and devalued the dollar by setting the mark free to be traded at whatever it would command in the market. Switzerland, Austria and the Netherlands revalued their money or set it free to "float." Britain, France and Italy stood pat.

Spain also made a slight adjustment in the rate on the peseta.

Chancellor Willy Brandt's cabinet hoped its actions would reverse the inflow of dollars it contends has aggravated domestic inflation and caused a rush by speculators last week buying up marks in anticipation of the upward revaluation.

Trading resumed on most of Western Europe's currency markets after being shut down since Wednesday, but dealing was on a small scale as most dealers were still sorting out the implications of the various government actions.

The dollar dropped on the Frankfurt market, opening at 3.51 marks, four points below Friday's closing and 15 points below the previous official 3.66. Toward noon it rose to 3.5375 marks.

The pound opened strong in London at $2.4195, compared to Friday's close of $2.4194 but dropped to $2.419 within an hour as dealers began profit taking on dollars.

The bullion market in London also stabilized, and the price of free gold dropped off 12.5 cents to $39.65 an ounce. It had risen well over $40 during the crisis last week.

There was much confusion on the Frankfurt market about the meaning of the Bonn Government's action. One dealer reported: "Every possible interpretation is being cited in dealers' circles right now, and nobody knows what to do. As a matter of fact, we feel that even the Bundesbank doesn't really know." The Bundesbank is the West German central bank.

Switzerland revalued its franc upward 7 per cent. The move in effect devalued the dollar, which has been weakened by years of deficits in the U.S. balance of payments. The dollar now will buy 4.08 Swiss francs instead of 4.37. Austria boosted its schilling by 5.05 per cent, making the dollar worth only 24.75 schillings instead of 26.

The Netherlands followed the German lead, setting the guilder free to float.

The mark was expected to increase in value at least 5 per cent in relation to the dollar.

The official rate before the crisis was 3.66 marks to the dollar, but trading last week closed at 3.55.

The dollar is the standard by which all other currencies are measured in the international monetary system. The influx of dollars to Europe had built to such proportions that the four countries and Belgium stopped buying dollars to maintain the official rates last Wednesday. Most trading in foreign currencies had been suspended since then.

The Belgian Cabinet was meeting today to set its course, and the Brussels market was closed until Tuesday. Some sort of revaluation was expected. The Belgian decision will also apply to Luxembourg because the two currencies are tied.

France and Italy, the other two members of the Common Market, said they planned no change in their currency rates because they have no dollar problems. The franc closed unchanged last week at 5.2125 to the dollar and the lira at 625.

Meanwhile, the United Press International reported that Americans must be prepared to shell out more money for German cars and cameras, and a trip to Austria's Salzburg festival.

These are among the things that are going to cost Americans more as a result of steps taken over the weekend to throw some cold water on the European monetary crisis.

The action means the U.S. dollar now will buy less in West Germany, Switzerland, the Netherlands and Austria — making their exports more expensive. For residents of these countries, it means imports will be a bit cheaper.

Thousands Across State Hike to Fight Hunger

Thousands of New York State residents joined people around the world Sunday in walking as much as 44 miles to raise money to fight hunger.

Organizers of the International Walk for Development said four million people in 600 cities of 50 countries participated over the weekend in anti-hunger marches. Nationally, spokesmen said about $5.1 million in pledges — including an estimated $500,000 in Buffalo — were collected.

Organizers of the Buffalo march said more than 100,000 people set out on a 20.3 mile course through the city. Marches also took place in Syracuse, Jamestown, Cortland, Binghamton, New Rochelle and Corning.

Among the hardest marchers were those in Jamestown where almost 300 people hiked around Chautauqua Lake. The 44-mile trek took two days.

Marchers collected money from donors for each mile walked in amounts ranging from a penny to Cortland Mayor Morris Noss's $60 a mile. Noss and Mayor Harry Canale of nearby Homer — walking at $20 a mile — collected $2,000 in pledges between them.

Noss told newsmen after the 25 mile hike that he planned to judge a beauty contest and then would go out dancing.

Taking a different view, an unidentified Buffalo hiker, walking slowly with his wife after finishing the walk, told her: "We'd better go to the foot transplant center."

"I'd like to limp," he added, "but both my feet hurt."

The Buffalo march was treated to partly cloudy skies in temperatures in the sixties. Marchers elsewhere in the state were less lucky.

About 2,000 Corning — area residents walked 20 miles through pouring rain, and in Troy, nearly 250 people suffered through intermittent heavy showers along a 20-mile route.

Some Buffalo marchers were seen on roller skates while others took turns pushing each other in shopping carts. Two cross-country runners finished the city's course in less than two hours, arriving at the final check point before many were able to set out.

The marchers raised money for projects both locally and around the world. About 32.5 per cent of the Buffalo money was earmarked for local groups and in Syracuse, 2,900 marchers raised an estimated $40,000 for projects including the establishment of a local food cooperative.

The New Rochelle march attracted 1,800 people and 600 walked through Binghamton Saturday afternoon.

Spokesmen said almost 640,000 people in more than 200 towns and cities across the United States took part in the international project.

In Buffalo, an estimated 100,000 people walked up to 20 miles here Sunday in raising $500,000 in pledges for antihunger programs.

Each marcher was backed by one or more sponsors who pledged to pay amounts from a penny up for each mile walked. Robert Austin, a school teacher, had 300 sponsors paying a total of $48 a mile.

Elaine Werner, an aide to the hike's coordinator, said more than 100,000 started Sunday morning along a 20.3 mile course.

"We're all in pretty good shape," she said. "The course was three miles shorter this year."

HIKE AGAINST HUNGER—An estimated 250,000 Chicago area youngsters took part in 12 different area 30-mile hikes in an effort to raise more than $1-million to fight hunger and poverty throughout the world. Group shown are from the suburban Niles and Skokie region.

Each hiker will be paid by a sponsor according to how far he walks. The 30-mile walks are sponsored by the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation, and similar walks are scheduled in about 350 cities throughout the country. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Saga of Swordfish Locally — It's Among the Missing Now

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

KINGSTON — If you have a craving for swordfish despite the recent warning of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) that it is harmful due to high mercury content, you may have to change your taste to halibut or some other seafood delicacy.

The seafood gourmet's delight is hard to find in Ulster County. Some wholesale dealers say swordfish has been embargoed for two months even though they still get an occasional call for it from restaurants and individuals who like to live dangerously.

Nat Gadaletto of Gadaletto Highland Fish Market, a wholesale and retail fish dealer said he hasn't had it in stock for some time now. As to calls, he said he gets them and only last Friday from a man who said he loves it and would be willing to take the chance.

Most food chains in the area have had home office directives to remove it from the shelves and to stop selling frozen swordfish.

One chain, Waldbaum's in Ulster Shop City, said it still had some frozen swordfish because there have been demands for it, but they were not sure if there was any left to sell. Other chains, A & P, Grand Union, Empire, Shop-Rite and Food Fair all give the same story — none in stock or taken off the order list.

Ed DeGasperis of Gov. Clinton Food Market, Broadway, said they stopped selling it when the first warning about mercury content went out. He also noted that they still get requests for it, but try to substitute halibut steak when a customer agrees.

State Fish Corp., Dock Street, Kingston, said they still have some swordfish for sale and it carries a seal stating that it has been inspected. George M. Jacobson, president of State Fish, said they still have calls for it and carry it to meet the demand.

On top of a previous announcement some months ago as to the dangers of eating swordfish due to the high content of mercury, the FDA issued a warning Thursday advising Americans to stop eating swordfish.

The scare nearly a year ago initiated crash testing by the government and industry. In the same announcement FDA minimized the harm, noting that about 26 million pounds a year are consumed, or two ounces per person. It was termed an economic disaster to the swordfish industry by the Small Business Administration because of the mercury situation.

Special

Tests have revealed that 811 of 853 swordfish samples tested were above the FDA's safety factor of 0.5 parts per million mercury with the average more than double the danger level.

The agency observed that there was a possibility swordfish might return to the market if the industry can work out a safety certification system which would be approved by the government.

The FDA stressed that only 5 per cent of the swordfish marketed is safe and it is particularly important that children and women of child-bearing age refrain from eating the delicacy.

Despite the recalls by major food chains the FDA said they had seized 832,000 pounds and this was possible even with the overall cooperation of swordfish brokers, who have withheld up to 4 million pounds from the market.

Some restaurants in the area still have it on the menu, but are unable to get a supply, so none is served. A few have it and will serve it if the customer specifically requests swordfish.

None of the restaurants contacted thought it would be "good publicity" to advise the public they still serve swordfish.

The FDA report left the swordfish industry in shock. There is hardly a glimmer of hope at New Bedford, Mass., reportedly the New England center of the swordfishing industry.

New Bedford was similarly hit in 1959 when the first commercially successful oil well was drilled knocking out the town's whaling industry.

On the West Coast there is both gloom and optimism. Some industry spokesmen claim many fishermen will have to go out of business.

However, in National City, Calif., some operators said when the season starts, they will go out and make test catches. They said they will compare their private tests with those of the FDA.

The Uptown UR Project — Half a Loaf From Washington

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will receive $2 million dollars from the federal government toward the cost of completing its Uptown Project, Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. announced today from his Washington, D. C., offices. But it's only half a loaf.

The agency, on March 2, had filed an amendatory for a total increase "just in excess of $4 million and a two-year extension. The agency got the $2 million for one year.

Agency Director James G. Connors explained that the federal government has changed its funding policies on urban renewal projects under its new Neighborhood Development Program (NDP). Under that program, funds will be allotted for only one year instead of the projected completion period of a program. Progress and production on an annual basis will be the criteria for additional funding.

The federal government has already allotted $5,753,746 toward the uptown project, the extra $2 million raising that figure to $7,753,746.

Connors, who said he has not received official (written) confimation on the Uptown amendatory, indicated that it could be coming by June 1. In that case, the agency would have to reapply in June of next year (if necessary) for more funds to complete the Uptown project.

Agency planners, in filing the amendatory last March, had figured on a summer-1973 completion date for the uptown program, which went into execution in 1965.

Plenty of Dialogue

Fish, Conservation Force Meet

By WADE BURKHART
NEW PALTZ

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-28th) said he established his Conservation Task Force (a group of conservation-minded citizens from his congressional district) in 1968 to "establish a dialogue," and that is exactly what occurred when the group met with Fish Saturday at Reggie's Inn in New Paltz.

The task force has representatives from conservation groups such as the Sierra Club, federated sportsmen's leagues, the Esopus Clean-Up Committee, the New York State Conservation Department, and also voter's organizations such as the League of Women Voters.

The very first question to arise in the session was the question of the proposed jetport at Stewart Airfield in Newburgh. Fish scored the manner in which the project had been conducted so far, saying "the entire proceeding has been characterized by a lack of candor on the part of the State of New York." He said the announcement of the plan had taken him "completely by surprise," and he had received a "total runaround" when seeking information for some weeks before the announcement was made.

The congressman said his recent talks with FAA officials had not been entirely satisfactory, either, but he had learned that studies of the feasibility of the jetport were being conducted. Fish said FAA officials did not know whether or not the state would seek funds in the development of the proposed airport, but he noted if the state did seek federal aid, by the provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act, the environ-

Women's Lib Group Told

Man Tabbed the Oppressor

By TIM SCHUSTER
NEW PALTZ

A self-proclaimed "radical feminist" told a statewide Womens Lib group here Saturday night that "every man is your oppressor," and advocated methods of achieving womens' rights in New York State.

Loretta Weiss substituted for guest speaker Ruth Ann Miller from the Womens' Strike Coalition for a part in the third annual SUNY Caucus on Womens' Rights. Mrs. Miller was reportedly suffering from exhaustion, having collapsed on a speaking platform the previous night in Detroit.

The Caucus spanned two days, and also included guest speaker Dr. Rose Brock of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, an authority on federal contract compliance.

While it was suggested that bad weather held the attendance from an expected 150 to about 50 representatives, those present Saturday evening heard Miss Weiss thoroughly cover the three major demands made by the Coalition.

They are: free abortion on demand with no forced sterilization; 24-hour community controlled day care centers; and equal employment opportunities for women.

In referring to the "oppression" of women by men, Miss Weiss added that she did not "hate all men," but only those who actively suppressed her and her "sisters." But she thought that all men cannot help but seeing women as sex symbols.

In speaking of "consciousness raising," a form of a speaking session on a continuous basis, she emphasized that no men should be allowed, and that "third world" (black and Chicano) women and lesbians should have separate groups because their problems were compounded.

The Coalition, comprised of more than 100 groups, sprang from the August, 1970 demonstration in Washington, D.C.

and was continued because the need was felt by participants. Among other statements made by Miss Weiss, which met with general approbation from the 50 persons present, were: the womens' rights movement has been faced with a "very vicious press blackout." She claimed that the nation's press has intentionally been neglecting their activities in favor of adversaries.

And she named Roman Catholic supported activities such as "Right to Life," a group opposed to liberalized abortion, as adversaries, adding that this group will be the defendant in a lawsuit because it is lobbying under the guise of a tax exempt organization.

She said that the Coalition does not allow men to speak for its views, even though "one man getting up to speak seems to carry more weight than ten women."

Symbolically, the Coalition newsletter subscription costs women $2 annually and men $3.45, because men "make 58 per cent higher incomes for doing the same jobs under different titles."

Miss Weiss professed great concern for the 30 bills introduced to constrict the present abortion law. She spoke bitterly of Governor Rockefeller's budget cut taking away Medicaid for abortions, saying the governor "swapped our bodies for his budget cuts."

And she claimed that women as a group are taken advantage of in this country because they do not constitute a political threat. This she attributes to lack of organization.

Results of consciousness raising sessions, according to Miss Weiss, are realizations that other women share your problems. "Women are taught in our society that without a man they are nothing," she opined. And she said, "You're a slave to your biology," referring to the necessity of taking care of children.

Among other statements was a blast at conventional marriage. "Marriage is more or less legalized prostitution," she stated, giving as reasons the fact that most women must depend almost entirely for sustenance and fulfillment upon their husbands, adding that many women choose marriage simply because the business world is unfair to them.

And she cited a statistic taken from a Chase Manhattan Bank study which asserted that the average wife and mother works in excess of 99 hours per week.

And in reference to the much-trumpeted free love of the past few years, she noted the "high price of free love."

"Exploitation is still very much alive," she contended.

U.S. Troop Strength Down to 267,100 in Viet

By BARNEY SEIBERT

SAIGON (UPI) — American troop strength is down to 267,100 in South Vietnam, the U.S. command said today. Fighting resumed between allied and Communist forces following weekend cease-fires that were marred by reports of violations.

The U.S. command said the figure of 267,100 troops reached on May 6 was the lowest since President Nixon's plans call for June 18, 1966. American troop strength reached 543,400 April 1969, at the peak of the buildup, a reduction to 184,000 by Dec. 1. Military spokesmen announced that a unit of the Americal Division, last full-strength U.S. division in Vietnam, began preparations today for withdrawal. The standdown was begun by the 5th Battalion, 46th Infantry of the division's 198th Infantry Brigade.

U.S. B52s dumped 1,000 tons of bombs along the Demilitarized Zone after the end of the cease-fire and North Vietnamese ambushed an American patrol in the A Shau Valley.

During the cease-fire period, 36 South Vietnamese civilians were killed when a ferryboat struck an underwater mine in the Cua Viet river three miles northeast of Dong Ha in South Vietnam's northern sector.

American and South Vietnamese officials charged the Communists violated the cease-fire a number of times. The 24-hour standdown observed by South Vietnamese headquarters ended at noon

Sunday while the Communist truce lasted another 24 hours. U.S. headquarters in Saigon said today there were "21 enemy-initiated actions reported against U.S. forces" during the 24-hour truce. Two Americans were killed and six wounded during that period, it said.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 55 truce violations. It said 53 South Vietnamese were killed during the standdown.

In neighboring Cambodia, Cong and North Vietnamese patrol operating in the A Shau Valley was attacked. One U.S. battlefields were reported relathat period. A paratrooper was killed and four U.S. soldiers were wounded, U.S. spokesmen said.

Showdown on Ending the War — Technicality Sidetracks Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — A technicality has sidetracked for the time being a drive to force a House showdown on ending the war in Vietnam.

Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., planned to attach an antiwar amendment to a $6.8 billion appropriation bill scheduled for House vote Tuesday. The bill carries emergency funds for miscellaneous agencies for the current fiscal year.

Part of the original approriation measure called for a definite date — probably Dec. 31, for ending the war.

But the 1972 clause was eliminated from the preliminary draft of the bill, leaving Yates no place to offer his amendments.

Had it remained in the bill, it—and Yates' amendment—would have been protected by a special rule. But in the absence of the section, and therefore, that rule, Yates' amendment is not germane and could be blocked by a single objection.

The spending ceiling was eliminated at the insistence of Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, senior Republican on the Appropriations Committee.

Bow said the proviso was included "to embarrass President Nixon and to make him look like a big spender by putting a ceiling on spending but letting the President go over the ceiling by releasing available funds which he has impounded."

Some committee Democrats who have criticized the President for impounding appropriated money, said privately it would have been inconsistent for them to demand Nixon turn the money loose in the same bill fixing a spending limit.

Eight Undecided Senators Hold Fate on the Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration sources say the votes of some eight undecided senators will determine the Senate outcome on extending the draft beyond June 30.

As the Senate moved into debate today an administration source said 10 to 15 of the 100 senators claimed to be undecided, but he indicated the actual number is about eight.

Nongovernment, Army-oriented organizations and National Guard interests have been lobbying for a two-year extension, as sought by the administration.

Sources within these groups reported that as of last week there were 45 senators favoring extension, 45 opposed and 10 undecided.

The prospects for draft extension have been clouded because the issue is intertwined with opposed antiwar senators, for trying to use the draft extension bill as a vehicle for their Vietnam opposition.

position to the Vietnam war and antiwar senators are preparing a series of amendments.

Rogers to President Nixon — A Mildly Optimistic Mideast Word

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers was back in the capital today to give President Nixon a mildly optimistic report on his efforts to find an opening to a peaceful Arab-Israeli settlement.

Rogers spent two weeks and covered 18,000 miles in Europe and the Mideast in his search for areas of agreement between the two sides. He told newsmen upon his arrival in Washington Sunday night:

"I think the difference between the parties had narrowed some and I think both sides generally would like to move toward peace." He added he is "somewhat more encouraged" about the Mideast than when he left.

Rogers, who had an afternoon meeting scheduled with the President, pointed cautiously to the possible reopening of the Suez Canal as a likely starting point that could lead to a wider agreement.

Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco had spent four hours Sunday with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat discussing the canal opening. Rogers had taken from earlier meetings with Israeli leaders. A possible reopening of the canal has been discussed often in recent weeks, with the largest obstacle being who should control the area held by Israel east of the canal in Sinai.

Rogers is said to have been told in talks Thursday and Friday with leaders in Jerusalem that Israel would permit some Egyptian presence on the east bank. But there was no agreement about who could cross between the Egyptian and Israeli views. Rogers felt this important enough to summon Sisco from Washington Saturday for the Saturday meeting. Sisco set out for the Cairo session. Rogers can sources would provide any avoid a one-year extension, because that would bring the is-

TELLS OF NEED — Chairman John Stennis (D-Miss.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said Sunday he would introduce a resolution to limit the President's powers to wage war — but that would exclude the Indochina war. Triple Fatality Near Port, Others in the Valley Area

By WALTER S. CLARK

Accidental deaths in New York State during the rainy 54-hour weekend period soared above two dozen persons, including 20 who lost their lives in traffic accidents.

A triple death fatality on Route 209 north of Port Jervis in Orange County on Sunday topped the highway mishaps that occurred during the grim weekend. Other traffic deaths were reported in Dutchess, Columbia, Putnam and Rockland Counties.

The victims of the three-death mishap were killed when their speeding car skidded into a tree and rolled over. Police identified the dead as Donale Deuel, 18, Samuel Solomon, also 18, and Charles Shumard, 19, all of Fairless Hills, Pa.

A 29-year-old Columbia County man was killed late Saturday when he lost control of his car on Route 29 east of Millbrook Road. Town of Claverack, and struck a guide post and a power pole before coming to a stop in a drainage ditch.

State Police identified the victim as Gary Tillson, of J. S. L. Boulevard, Hudson. Authorities said Tillson's belt apparently became caught as he was thrown from the car and he was dragged beneath the vehicle which skidded about 114 feet. Death resulted from multiple fractures.

A woman who was expecting her seventh child was killed Sunday in a two-car collision on Route 22 in eastern Dutchess County near Pawling. State Police said Mrs. Rita Donnelly, 30, of Pawling, was pronounced dead on arrival at Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie. Her husband, Eugene, 35, a New York City patrolman, was admitted at the hospital in serious condition.

The other car was driven by John Antonawicz, of New Milford, Conn. Police arrested him on charges of drunken driving and criminal negligent homicide.

Another weekend highway fatality claimed the lives of Dennis Brendel, 21, of Queens, and a passenger in his car, Julie Rodriguez, 21, of Fort Lee, N.J. Police said they were killed Saturday when the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve and struck a concrete pillar at an overpass on Route 17 near Suffern in Rockland County.

Meanwhile, Fishkill State Police reported five persons, including three children, were injured seriously in an accident Sunday night off Route 9D in the Putnam County Town of Philipstown. Police said the car in which the five were riding dropped down an 8-foot embankment and flipped over on the edge of the Penn Central Railroad tracks. The car was driven by Frank Sampson, 43, of Peekskill.

About 10 minutes after the mishap, 13-year-old Vincent Jimola, of Peekskill, a passenger heard a train approaching and as he tried to close a door of the car it was hit by the locomotive. The two were taken to a local hospital.

Police also reported the death of Glenn D. Wells, of Walden, which resulted Sunday when he was injured as his car skidded off a rain-slick highway near Plattsburgh and toppled into Lake Champlain after hitting a tree.

Meanwhile, Kingston police investigated a rash of accidents. Late Sunday night a car driven by Neftali Collozo, 33, of 73 Franklin Street, in that city, crashed into a utility pole on Abel Street west of Dunn Street. Collozo was later charged with obstructing governmental administration, driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent and unsafe tires. The driver and three passengers were injured and all were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance.

Another accident occurred Sunday night on Route 28 in the Town of Hurley. Five persons were taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. The same ambulance service removed three injured persons from an accident on the Thruway to Kingston Hospital. They were residents of Tonawanda.

Putnam County authorities also reported a fatal accident on Interstate Route 84 near Carmel Sunday night. A 6-year-old Danbury, Conn., boy was killed and six members of his family were injured.

SEEKING A GEM — The first antique and bottle show and sale of the American Cancer Society Sunday at Temple Emanuel was reported a tremendous success with about 600 attending and the crusade benefitting by nearly $600. Raymond J. Armater, Cancer Crusade Special Events co-chairman said the show drew patrons from as far south as New Jersey and from sections of Massachusetts. It was the first show of its kind ever attempted in Kingston. Armater said the congregation of Temple Emanuel is to be commended for the excellent cooperation and facilities provided for the event. He said the sales were tremendous and the dealers, numbering nearly 25 were well satisfied. On the basis of this first venture, there is no reason why the Cancer Society will not make this an annual crusade event, it was announced. Robert C. Weir of Tillson was co-chairman with Armater. Blood Bank Protection Bill Of Bell Signed by Governor ALBANY — Legislation protecting blood banks in Ulster County and the rest of the state has passed the state Assembly and Senate and has been signed by Governor Rockefeller.

The proposal, sponsored by Ulster County Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, clearly defines all aspects of human blood collection, handling, distribution and transfusion as medical services by deleting reference to the "sale" of human blood or blood derivatives. It further defines the collection, processing, storage, distribution or use of human blood or blood derivatives as a public health service and an aid to medical practitioners in the diagnosis, prevention of treatment of disease. It especially does provide that these uses of human blood are not to be deemed sales for any purpose whatsoever.

Assemblyman Bell said: "Human blood and its derivative parts are absolutely essential to the medical practitioner's ability to diagnose, prevent and treat diseases and conditions. Modern medicine without freedom to utilize human blood would be a reversal to 19th century standards."

"However, present provisions of the New York State Public Health Law relating to human blood," Bell explained, "leave open to judicial interpretation whether or not the collection, processing, storage and distribution of blood constitute 'sales' and, as such, place the risk of strict liability for injury to a recipient on the hospital, the blood bank and on the individual physician who orders the blood to be transfused."

The Ulster County assemblyman pointed out that cases in New York State and elsewhere have centered on the issue of whether the transfusion of blood constitutes a "sale" and, if so, whether such a "sale" carries the warranties which apply to the sale of any commercial product.

Assemblyman Bell continued: "Because of this problem, insurers are increasingly reluctant to write liability policies for blood banks, hospitals and physicians. Should New York State courts define human blood as a product and its transfer as a commercial sale, it would be a serious situation."

"In this case liability insurance premiums would soon become prohibitive and limit the number of blood resources available to serve a growing public need. Those directly affected would include all Red Cross blood centers, commercial blood banks, hospitals, clinics, and physicians.

"The legislatures of 25 states have averted this potential problem by clearly defining all aspects of human blood collection and use as medical services."

Bell said this legislation resulted from conferences with Sister Mary Charles, administrator of Benedictine Hospital of Kingston and Dr. Herbert Derman of Kingston Laboratory and is of extreme importance to the recently-formed Ulster County Blood Bank.

Nixon Vists N. Y. Area on Park Mission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today was asking Congress to expand the nation's park system with 23,000 acres along the Atlantic Coast which the administration says will directly benefit 20 million urban dwellers.

Nixon tried to focus public attention on his bid for the new Gateway Park in New York and New Jersey with a trip today to the New York harbor area.

The President was flying with Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton to New York.

Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and William T. Cahill of New Jersey and Mayors John V. Lindsay of New York and Kenneth Gibson of Newark were invited to join the President.

The proposed Gateway Park would consist of 23,000 Atlantic coastal acres, including Sandy Hook, N. J., Breezy Point, N. Y., and the Jamaica Bay, N. Y., wildlife preserve.

Sandy Hook, which is 10 miles of sand dunes and beach owned by Ft. Hancock and used exclusively by the military, is one of five major federal properties that Nixon declared under-utilized in his Feb. 15 "legacy of parks" message to Congress.

Envoy Near Death After Escape Try

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A Colombian diplomat accused of shooting a millionaire playboy was near death today after falling out of the landing gear compartment of a departing jetliner during an escape attempt.

Police said Eduardo Espinoza de Zuleta, 30, second secretary at the Colombian Embassy in Washington, D.C., fell more than 60 feet to the runway of Pudahuel International Airport from a Braniff DC8 jet Saturday night as it was taking off for Miami.

Espinoza had been sought since the shooting Wednesday of Rafael Friery Mazzedo, millionaire president of the Jockey Club of Colombia, who was in Chile to buy 40 race horses.

Police said Friery had refused to give his wife a divorce so she could marry Espinoza. Friery is 44, his wife 32.

Police said Espinoza flew to Chile from Washington last Wednesday on a false passport. Friery was in a downtown hotel with two friends when he was shot twice by a gunman who ran down a back stairway and escaped. The millionaire was taken to a hospital in serious condition, but doctors said he would recover.

Friery and his friends said Espinoza was the gunman.

Espinoza called the Colombian Embassy and then got in touch with one of Chile's top criminal lawyers. However, he remained at large.

Police said he apparently hid in the nose wheel compartment of the Braniff jet but panicked when the landing gear began to retract and fell 60 or 70 feet to the runway.

His crumpled body was found 30 minutes later by an Iberia pilot who had to swerve as he was landing his jetliner to avoid hitting the diplomat. Espinoza was rushed to a hospital in a coma, suffering from numerous fractures and head injuries.

Rocky Would Expand the Adirondack Park

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has proposed the creation of an Adirondack Park Agency and the expansion of the present park by about 35,000 acres.

The package of eight bills introduced by Rockefeller Saturday generally follows the recommendations of a special commission studying the future of the Adirondacks.

A nine-member board would supervise the agency, which would have an appropriation of $250,000.

Besides developing a comprehensive plan for the use of public and private lands within the park, the agency would formulate interim safeguards against the misuse of the land and depreciation of its value.

Rockefeller, noting that 60 percent of the park's four million acres is held by individuals and corporations, said that the Temporary Study Commission on the Future of the Adirondacks expressed "a sense of urgency" in its report.

"If the owners of these lands were to exploit or overdevelop them — in ways inconsistent with an overall plan for the preservation of the natural environmental values of the lands, it would undermine the very features that attract millions to the Adirondacks," Rockefeller said.

Under the expansion plans, the park would be extended in all four directions, including into Lake Champlain.

The boundary would be moved on the east to the center of the lake, which also is the Vermont-New York State line.

On the northeast, the expansion would include Valcour Island, in Lake Champlain just south of Plattsburgh, and additional areas in the towns of Peru, Saranac, Dannemora, Altona, Ellenburg and Belmont, as well as some "upland areas" in the towns of Willsboro, Essex and Westport.

On the west and south, it would include six small parcels of forest preserve adjacent to the present park boundary.

Rockefeller said the expansions would facilitate more efficient enforcement of various laws.

The agency will be charged with developing programs for the use and management of state lands and the control of private lands within the park.

Rockefeller said that the legislation also is intended to protect the right of local governments to adopt regulations for land use and development. The proposals also would exempt forest and agricultural management practices from its provisions.

Other measures in the package would:

— Make it easier for the state to obtain limited property rights.

— Lead to a constitutional amendment prohibiting reduction of the Adirondack and Catskill parks.

— Protect the size of the park pending the enactment of a constitutional amendment.

— Lead to a constitutional amendment permitting the state to rededicate or dispose of detached forest preserve parcels of between 10 and 100 acres.

— Protect wild, scenic and recreational areas, including rivers.

Constitutional amendments require passage by two separately elected legislatures and approval by voters at the polls.

Look to Mariner 9 for May 18 After One Failure

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Preparations moved ahead today to launch Mariner 9 toward Mars on scheduled on May 18 while investigators probe the failure of Mariner 8.

Even with a delay, Mariner 9 could be launched as late as June 17. After that Mars moves out of favorable position and won't be available as a target again until 1973. The first half of the $153.6 million project to send two satellites in orbit around Mars failed Saturday night less than five minutes after the Atlas-Centaur rocket blasted off. The second stage tumbled out of control 92 miles high and plummeted into the Atlantic Ocean with its payload.

Initial examination of radio data traced the problem to an electronic failure in the Centaur's flight control system. Several days may be required to pinpoint the exact cause, investigation to proceed right ahead with our plans to launch the second Mariner on May 18. "Depending on what is learned, we have additional time in the launch period where we can stop our preparations and make corrections to the Atlas-Centaur rocket if they are necessary."

Mariners 8 and 9 were the first spacecraft built to orbit another planet. Mariner 8 was to have conducted a broad mapping mission of 70 per cent of the Martian surface, while Mariner 9 was to have made repeated surveys of six selected areas to detect atmospheric, surface and seasonal changes.

Each was equipped with sensors and two television cameras.

Kraemer said Mariner 9 now will be assigned Mariner 8's mapping assignment.

Hoover Marks 47th Year as Head of the FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — When J. Edgar Hoover took over what was to become the Federal Bureau of Investigation in 1924, the scandal-ridden agency was reeling under a barrage of criticism.

Marking his 47th anniversary as head of the FBI today, Hoover himself is under heavy attack and, in President Nixon's words, "digging in." But he still seems firmly in the saddle.

The 76-year-old Hoover has seen seven presidents and 15 attorneys general come and go during his tenure as FBI director. And he has seen the agency grow from 441 special agents and 195 clerical employees to more than 8,400 special agents and 10,500 clerical employees.

He is spending today, an aide said, "right here, working at his desk, just like any other day."

But though Hoover will take no public notice of the occasion, it is unlikely to go unnoticed by the growing number of public figures clamoring for his retirement.

A veteran member of that group, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., fired a fresh round at Hoover Sunday, demanding a lot who criticized the FBI.

Senate investigation of what he said was an attempt by the director to discredit an airline pilot, Hoover Sunday, demanding a lot who criticized the FBI.

McGovern Renews the Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern today renewed his attack on J. Edgar Hoover, as the FBI director began his 47th year on the job by saying he has no intention of quitting.

McGovern, who already has said Hoover should resign, claimed today to have uncovered documentary evidence that Hoover violated the U.S. Constitution by trying to discredit an airline pilot who criticized the FBI's handling of a hijacking case.

McGovern, the only announced Democratic presidential candidate, said he sent the information from Cook's Air evidence to Sam J. Ervin Jr., D.N.C., with a request that Ervin's subcommittee on constitutional rights investigate the incident.

The TWA pilot, Donald C. Cook Jr., had criticized the way the FBI handled a hijacking in which he was involved in New York in November, saying it was "a prescription for getting the entire crew killed and the plane destroyed."

McGovern, D-S.D., previously had accused Hoover of writing to Cook's boss, TWA Board Chairman Charles C. Tillinghast Jr., complaining about privacy, and he asked Ervin Cook and including confidential information from Cook's Air Force file in the letter.

McGovern said Tillinghast now has confirmed receipt of Hoover's letter, telling McGovern "following the incident in question, we received a communication from Hoover touching, among other things, the Air Force prior to his employment with TWA."

McGovern said Hoover's action in the Cook case "constitutes a violation of the Civil Rights Act, the First Amendment right of free speech and the Ninth Amendment right to privacy," and he asked Ervin for an investigation.

McGovern, a Democratic Maine Sen. Edmund Muskie, presidential aspirant, said Hoover another Democratic presidential inquired into the Air Force record of Donald J. Cook Jr., Trans World Airlines pilot whose plane was hijacked from Los Angeles to Rome by Raphael Minichiello Nov. 1, 1969. Cook criticized an FBI attempt to block the hijacking while the plane was refueling in New York, saying it was "a prescription for getting the entire crew killed and the plane destroyed."

This, McGovern said, resulted in Hoover's inquiry, which the senator called a violation of the civil rights act, the First Amendment right to free speech, the Ninth Amendment right to privacy and Air Force regulations covering disclosure of personnel information.

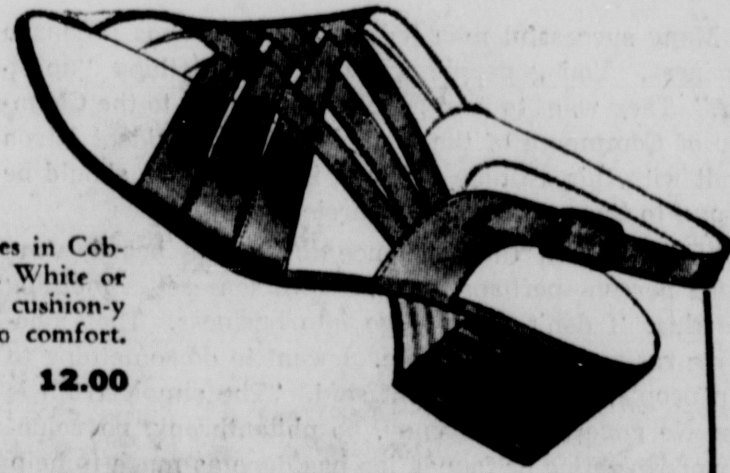

Other criticisms of Hoover during the past year have come from House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs, who accused the FBI of bugging his phone, and

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 10, 1971

Job Information

Kingston Rotary Club Employment Information Day to be held May 15 at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue will give high school seniors in Ulster County, who are not going to college, the chance to meet with area business representatives, study displays and discuss employment possibilities. This could be a very important occasion for the young people who take advantage of this opportunity.

Industrial and business leaders of the area are aware that young talent is vital to their organizations and they will be on hand for personalized assistance and consultations. Many of the seniors have skills learned through vocational and technical courses and through business courses. Education with a vocational purpose is becoming increasingly important today.

Mid-Hudson Career Development and Information Center of Beacon, a non-profit, state-sponsored agency will join Kingston Rotary in this project, which is designed to assist high school students in securing employment in area businesses and industries.

Private Enterprise

Many successful men today hear their sons renounce business. Young people want to do something "uplifting." They want to help people. In his talk to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, President Nixon dealt with this attitude of youth in a way that should be helpful to them and to their worried parents.

"Everyone in this audience today has heard some young person—perhaps even his own son—say something like this: 'I don't want to go into business. That nine-to-five rat race is not for me. I want to do something to help people,'" the President said. "The simple truth is this: No government agency, no philanthropy, no voluntary organization or foundation has done as much to help people as the private enterprise system.

Seldom has a government leader given the private enterprise system its just due. Not only does it keep all who want it at work and receiving regular pay checks, health insurance, pensions and other benefits, it continuously donates large sums to charities and provides leadership and funds for civic enterprises. It gives incentives to men and women to work, to improve themselves, their homes, their families and their environment. It pays the large part of the taxes which maintain this great nation and its people.

As the President said, there is no message stamped on every welfare check that reads "this comes to you from the taxes raised from the private enterprise system," as it does. Because a government is the distributor, many recipients make the mistake of thinking government is the producer—and nothing could be further from the truth. Taxes from private enterprise business supply the major share.

The President was only giving credit where credit was due when he said we need to take a lot more pride in the system that makes it possible for us to be "the most generous and most compassionate nation on the face of the earth. The system that has delivered more self-respect to more human beings than any other system devised by man deserves to be treated with more respect itself." Amen.

Philadelphia Municipal Court Judge John J. Poserina Sr. answered a knock at his door one evening. Edward Farrington, 35, pushed him in, saying it's a stickup. A second man appeared and told Farrington not to "mess with him." A few days later, a man at the bar charged with a holdup was identified by Judge Poserina as Farrington. He swore out a warrant charging him with holdup and robbery. A coincidence, but it did happen. Judge Poserina is still shaking his head over it.

David Lawrence Says Rising Production Costs Chief Cause of U.S. Inflation

WASHINGTON — Economic recovery is being blocked today more by rising costs of production than by any other single factor. The latest example comes in the announcement by the U.S. Steel Corporation — the biggest steel producer in the country — that it has been compelled to make a 6 1/2 per cent increase in the price of steel used in autos, appliances and other durable consumer goods, as prices for large-volume steel sheet and strip products rise 8.50 to 13 dollars a ton.

But this is not all — other steel manufacturers are expected to announce increases similar to these. Also, another round of price increases may become necessary in the second half of 1971 to take care of the costly settlements which are expected when the new labor contracts are signed.

Already Republic Steel Corporation — the nation's third largest producer — has announced that it will join U.S. Steel in the percentage of the increase just made. The big question is how much more of a raise in prices will become necessary after the labor negotiations this summer. For actually the prices just announced are presumably based on the added costs resulting from the 1970 wage boosts which the steel industry absorbed.

Naturally, the administration isn't too happy with these developments. But there is no sign of any intercession by government officials, though it has been known right along that the 1970 wage settlements would result in higher prices. In fact, profits of the steel companies have been the lowest they have experienced since World War II. In 1970, they dropped 42 per cent from 1969, and were 48 per cent under 1968. The return of stockholders' equity was the lowest since the 1938 recession.

Officials of the U.S. Steel Corporation have been hopeful that their negotiators might persuade the Steelworkers Union to accept a smaller increase than has been reported as its demand. The union recently obtained a contract with car companies calling for a 31 per cent boost in labor costs over three years, and the assumption in labor circles has been that employees in the steel industry would get the same or better terms.

Certainly the steel companies are not likely to invite a strike, and the good news that Japanese Steel exports to the United States may be limited to an increase of only five per cent a year has also been welcomed by the steel producers in America.

But the fact that the price rises which have just been announced are claimed to be taking care of past increased costs leaves open the question of whether or not there really will be a strike. The steel companies will do everything in their power to prevent one, as they have a substantial demand now from the auto industry and would like to be able to go on with their operations without interruption.

The steel industry is hoping that the next price increases may not have to be substantial. But everything is dependent upon how flexible the labor-union negotiations prove to be. The administration fully expects any price rise will be passed on to consumers by the steel users and — as Ronald Ziegler, President Nixon's Press Secretary, phrases it — will have an effect "on the inflationary aspects of the economy."

A spokesman for the President's Council of Economic Advisers has said that the increase in prices by the steel industry was "not particularly surprising" and that what is of real concern is the possible price boosts that will occur in the second half of this year as an outcome of the wage settlement with the union.

The need for constant rises in prices from year to year due to increases in costs of production has not been as widely publicized as it should have been. For this is one of the big causes of America's inflation and one of the principal obstacles today to the return of economic stability.

What is happening in steel is being repeated in many another industry. Costs go up and profits are brought down. The effort to get enough money to pay these high costs means raising prices. This either introduces foreign competition or else cuts down the demand for certain products and slows down the business mechanism of the whole country. That's why the effort to develop a system that would measure equitably the right amount by which wages and prices would be increased is more than ever essential if inflation is to be conquered and a prosperous economy restored.

AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL? NO WONDER!

Women who frequent beauty salons — or parlors, as they are called in my set — spawn once a week. The beauticians work over hair and features with scissors, curlers, dyes, creams and unguents in a ceaseless effort to alter what God hath wrought. No woman, not even a beautiful one, is satisfied with her hair or face.

Walk south on Norwood Avenue in Oakhurst, New Jersey, and, on the west side, you will see Tony's Salon. It's a one-window place owned by Anthony Fiorentini. The thing that makes it worth time and research is that Tony's is a typical beauty salon. There is the cashier's desk, and that lady at the phone, listening and writing appointments in a book, is his mother.

Behind her are the gleaming tools of the torture trade — dryers, curlers, rollers, and big comfortable chairs the cuticle cutters, hoses with soft nozzles, basins, electric shears, steam packs, and so forth. Tony is a short man with thick black wavy hair and a hint of gray. He wears glasses, and he can be bright and gay when his customers are bright and gay, or silent and moody, if that's the attitude of madame.

American women spend untold billions of dollars each year on a quality which, so they say, is in the eye of the beholder. Most women claim they go to beauty salons to please their husbands. Or their boy friends. Or, sadly, both. I think, from talking to Tony, that they may be trying to please themselves.

Females from the age of three onward sense that what they have to offer the world is a face and a figure. I've seen tiny girls (my own) come in from play with dirty faces and tear-streaked eyes. After a warm bath, a talcum pat, a vigorous hair-brushing and a pony tail, all you have to do is put a lace-edged slip on and a starched dress on them and they beam with inner beauty.

This lasts a lifetime. I do not knock female vanity. Those teased hairdos and the hanging curl over the ear do something for their morale. Fortunately, it also does something for men. I must admit that whatever is done in Tony's Salon does not last forever; like rain on grass it must be renewed constantly.

Tony has about two hundred customers a week, which averages out to about 33 a day. He and his assistant and the three girls who work the shop knock practically all of the ladies, and their requirements. Tony has been a hair-dresser for thirty years, and he says that 80 per cent of all women have straight hair.

He prefers it that way. Those who have naturally curly, or wavy hair, are difficult to restyle. And women are fashion-followers. If the current style is high bouffant, the husband who is married to a five-foot beauty comes home from work to find that she is now five feet eight.

If fingernails are mandarin-length and color until they cannot dial a public telephone. Today, they speak of split ends and "frizzies" as though these were new. Hair has always been woman's crowning glory, and it always had trouble with it.

Tony told me he started by learning finger waving, pin curling, hair coloring, permanent waving, cutting and styling. He's a man's man with an attractive wife named Arlene and three lovely children, but he can listen to customers chatter as they undergo a manicure, a pedicure, a facial mask and having their hair teased.

Women who feel tense use a beauty salon as a place to relax. There is something about having hair and fingers worked on which calms them and lifts their spirits. I checked this with two other beauticians and they agree with Tony — a woman in emotional turmoil finds surcease in a beauty salon. This, I assure you, is more than I ever got from a barber shop. Now, a few men are sneaking into beauty salons to have their hair styled.

The average customers arrive asking for a haircut, a shampoo and a "styling," whatever that is. The cost runs about $6. This comes to $312 a year. Most of them spend their time reading copies of Good Housekeeping, Cosmopolitan, McCall's, House Beautiful, Glamour and movie fan magazines.

All women have problems. Some tell. Some do not. Some confide in the girls, some tell it to Tony. Arlene takes some of them to the back and gives them an aspirin. Forty minutes of listening, and the lady's headache is gone, and Arlene has one.

They talk about children, grandchildren, husbands, money, bills, and lack of appreciation. At home, after dinner, Arlene sits before a three-way mirror fingering her hair, pouting, and says: "Tony, what do you think I should do —" "Whatever it is," he says firmly, "you do it. Not me."

Jack Anderson Says Hoover Collects $250,000 On Three Books He By-Lined

WASHINGTON — That tireless guardian of the nation's morals, J. Edgar Hoover, has collected more than $250,000 in royalties from three books researched and ghostwritten for him by FBI agents on government time.

This is an offense, if it had been committed by some other government official, that the FBI might have been asked to investigate. For the money rightfully should have gone to the taxpayers, who paid the salaries of the FBI researchers and writers.

In defense of Hoover, friends say he turned over the proceeds to his favorite charities. They cited the J. Edgar Hoover Foundation, whose records we immediately inspected. No royalty payments nor cash donations were listed from the FBI chief.

We also determined that royalty checks were made out to Hoover personally, not to charities.

Of the three books, the biggest money maker was "Masters of Deceit," published in 1958 by Holt (not Holt, Rinehart and Winston), which sold almost 250,000 copies. Then it was bought up by Pocketbook, which sold two million paperback copies.

In 1964, Warner Brothers paid Hoover a reported $50,000 for the movie rights, although no movie was ever made of the book. Insiders suggest the payment was intended to butter up the old bear so he would permit Warner Brothers to film the popular TV series, "The FBI."

Again, the taxpayers, not Hoover, should have been paid for the TV rights to FBI stories. For the FBI, after all, is a government agency, not Hoover's private police.

The FBI chief's book, "Study of Communism," published by Holt in 1962, sold some 125,000 copies. And a paste-up collection of Hoover's sayings, published by Random House as a book entitled "On Communism," sold around 40,000 copies.

Insiders say the man who authored Hoover's best prose is Special Agent F.C. Stukenbroeker, a talented Ph.D., whose sinewy writing would have made him a fine author in his own right. Stukenbroeker gulped out an

Henry J. Taylor Says Eisenhower, An Honored Man

On May 7, 1945, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower tersely cabled the Combined Chiefs of Staff in Washington: "The mission of the Allied force was fulfilled at 0241, local time." On November 4, 1952, he was elected President of the United States and then re-elected by the largest majority ever given. On March 28, 1969, age 78, he passed into America's history — to live there forever.

"Great men die twice," philosopher Paul Valery said, "once as men and once as great." Our nation bid Dwight D. Eisenhower a sorrowful farewell on both counts.

It was impossible not to like him. On a visit to his Abilene, Kan., boyhood home he said one day: "I suppose we were poor, but the glory of it was that we never knew it." And even during the war, with five stars on his shoulder, he was certainly a lot more thoughtful and easier to talk with than many a second lieutenant I met one place and another.

He had all the qualities, large and small, that induce loyalty. He had no unkindness at all; his whole nature was charitable; he had no malice in him whatever. This man, one of the most-honored men in all history, was Kipling's "If" personified. He had many occasions to walk with kings and had no illusions of grandeur; no egotism, no jealousy, no vanity.

General Eisenhower lived his life. It didn't live him — and never, never in respect to honors. But a thought also occurs to me that is a wonderful thing to be able to say about anybody in any walk of life. I have never seen, nor do I believe anybody ever saw, President Eisenhower make a decision with the slightest consideration of how he himself would come out of it.

Cervantes wrote that the ambition of every Spanish general is to save his country by becoming its ruler. There is none of this among our nation's top military people as a whole and in General Eisenhower's case the White House was literally thrust upon him.

Is there another case in modern politics where a feeling of sheer duty alone gave a truly reluctant "yes"?

"of course I can't say anything about that," when we asked him how much of the three Hoover books he had written and whether he received a bonus for them.

The research for the three books, we also have learned, was done on government time by FBI employees. They drew heavily from the files of the Domestic Intelligence Division, an ex-FBI bigwig told us. The arrangements for the books and the TV series were also handled largely by FBI men on government time.

Footnote: We tried in vain to get a response from the embattled old G-man. A spokesman would say only, "No comment."

Washington Whirl
Federal Infiltrators —

Hundreds of federal agents, dressed in hippie garb, infiltrated the recent antiwar demonstrations in Washington. Most effective were the narcotics agents, who speak the language of the drug culture and wear their hair long and unkempt as a regular guise. They submitted handwritten reports, charging hawkers sold drugs instead of hot dogs to the crowds and sexual intercourse was a spectator sport. They reported that some of the LSD was diluted with strychnine, causing serious illnesses. One report quoted Rennie Davis, the demonstration leader, as planning to dress radical girls as tourists, provide them with cans of lighter fluid and have them set fires in government buildings.

Nixon's News — We have had access to President Nixon's private news digests for last week. We found an occasional personal comment from Pat Buchanan who prepares them. In one aside, he suggested that the Washington Post's coverage of the antiwar demonstrations indicated the paper was seeking a national award. And a Buchanan aide, reporting on a George Wallace TV appearance, noted that the performance was smooth but that Wallace spoke from the "gut." On the whole, however, we found the presidential news summaries carefully objective. Most stories were boiled down to the bare bones, but the total impact was comprehensive.

Heroin Smuggling — The Customs Bureau has ordered a thorough search of returning GIs and incoming parcels from Vietnam to curb the flow of super-grade Saigon heroin into this country. Insiders tell us, however, that some GIs send heroin home in first-class envelopes, which have been ironed so they will go through the mails without detection. Others dip their writing paper in a heroin water solution. After it dries, they write seemingly innocent letters which can be moistened and squeezed for heroin injections. Then the letters can be shredded and smoked in cigarettes or pipes.

Postal Nepotism — The Post Office has developed a new form of nepotism. When Assistant Postmaster General James Hargrove testified on Capitol Hill recently, he took along his brother Clyde as counsel. The Post Office told us, however, that Clyde Hargrove made little profit from the appearance: a token $1 fee.

Foreign Aid — Pete Peterson, the President's international economics adviser, made a strong foreign aid appeal to GOP congressional leaders the other day behind closed White House doors. He described the economic and educational needs of underdeveloped countries. For instance, he told the leaders that only about 5 per cent of the population of underdeveloped countries ever reach high school.

Civil Disobedience
Editor, The Freeman:
Enclosed is a comment, on civil disobedience, practiced by our youth, this past week.

As the son of a Spanish American War Veteran, a brother of two who served in World War I, a Japanese prisoner of war for 18 months in World War II and the father of a boy killed in Korea on February 4, 1953, I want to see this confrontation stopped also, but there is such a thing as democratic process.

Marching around with beards and long hair and demonstrating against the government will not resolve a thing.

In 1816 Steven Decatur declared, "In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right, but my country right or wrong!"

Do you people realize that when at the Paris peace table, these spoliators, read that one-half of one per cent of the youth of this great country go on a stupid rampage that their line does not become more belligerent?

You are not helping the P.W.s one iota. You are only hurting them. I know from experience. Let's get with it and end this thing that is killing the flower of our youth, in a sensible way. What you people have done this past week is not the way to go about bringing our boys home.

Very truly yours,

Woodstock Recreation
Editor, The Freeman:

If the people who are attempting to set up this private park in Zena are really interested in recreation for all the children of Woodstock they should take advantage and find out what the Town of Woodstock Recreation Committee is doing to improve the recreational activities for youngsters of our town.

The Town Recreation Committee sponsors a summer swimming and recreation program at the Swim O'Links which has proven to be highly successful.

This includes a pool that is larger than an olympic size pool, heated and filtered. Basketball, ping pong, volley ball, hand ball, a game room. All under professional supervision.

I am up here 25 years, running a successful business throughout Ulster County including Woodstock. Previous to making our home and business in Woodstock, I was the head of the PAL in Bayside, L. I. Now as a family affair, Mrs. Hand and I, for these past five years, have been running a swimming pool and recreational activities.

P.S. A pool in the town is worth too as a promise.

The Dog Problem
Editor, The Freeman:

I have written this letter to our aldermen to be read at their next meeting. Gentlemen: I am writing in reference to your crowded, dirty dump where it meets of May 4th and the remarks passed by two members regarding the dog problem in Kingston.

First: How many of you have visited the S.P.C.A. headquarters? If you have, (which I doubt) how can you demand animals be picked up off the street and confined in such a place as that until put to death? What kind of monsters are you?

Instead of shooting off your mouths about the poor dogs, why don't you put the blame where it belongs — on the dogowners? I realize dogs can't vote and people can but where is your compassion?

Owning an animal should be made a privilege and harder to do. All animal owners and future owners should be made to have their dogs tattooed with the owners social security number. This way if the animal is ever picked up for any reason, the owner must accept the fine. As it stands now, the dog is allowed to run nine out of ten times without a license.

When picked up it is brought to an understaffed, over-crowded, dirty dump where it waits for an uncaring owner to claim it. Most of whom don't bother — they just wait to pick up another dog that someone advertises "for free" in the local paper. As I said, instead of making a speech about the menace to the public and all that garbage, why not do something constructive for a change? The SPCA cannot make any laws — you can. To condemn a dog to death if found loose on the street isn't showing any sense at all, just shows you up for unfeeling men. Why not go after the real culprit the dog owners.

Sincerely,
Mrs. DOROTHY GALITZKY

Alternatives to Abortion
Editor, The Freeman:

Many people have been dismayed and shocked by the liberalized abortion law. Recently a reader wrote and asked some stirring questions implying that abortion was the only logical answer.

When you hear the word abortion, your stomach may flip at the thought that a living creature is wrenched mercilessly from its mother's womb without ever the mere utter of a cry of protest. When you see the word abortion, you may wish to avert your eyes and think, oh well, it's better than some back alley butcher, besides that poor kid wasn't wanted anyway.

Yes, abortion is the answer to many problems. Overpopulation and pollution could be kept to a minimum. The birth rate lowered would reduce the statistics of crime and war. People would have room to stretch out and really live. Life would be a bowl of cherries. It's a real pretty thought, but man is a miserable creature bent on self destruction through greed, lust and hatred to list a few of his hang-ups.

Remove your rose-colored glasses, get out your thinking cap and apply just a little common sense and you'll soon see through the positive guise of abortion: It's Murder plain and simple.

There are alternatives to abortion: love, responsibility and self control.

Presently, a woman can rid herself of an unwanted pregnancy in an atmosphere of quiet, cleanliness, and gentle understanding care rendered by people who understand: specialists in their field. You'd receive the same dignity at any proper undertaker establishment. The departed may be entombed in a sac-like formation and not yet formed to look like his human parents, but his little heart beats, that is until he's "vacuumed" out of existence.

Love is an alternative. Not sex or its connotations, but true love: giving of oneself for another, charity. A woman could deliver an unwanted baby and consider her child before herself. Perhaps the only answer for her would be to give her child away, place him for adoption. Her aching heart may yearn to hold him, her eyes would flood with tears every time she thought of him, but at least she didn't deny him the right to live. It would take a lot of "guts" to be: A Mother.

Responsibility is an alternative. We live in a permissive world in which we've reached a state that we can no longer be shocked by anything. Young people now feel that it's quite all right to live together, have a child and perhaps split when things get rough. Divorce is a costly burden and without a marriage no one need be committed to give of himself, to love another human more than himself. It could be the responsibility of parents and teachers to guide the child toward proper sex attitudes. To show him through good example that sexual love, within the bounds of marriage, is good because two people love, respect and give of themselves.

It could be the responsibility of an older generation to show through good example that sex is a volatile appetite, easily accessible, but then it always has been.

Self control is an alternative. The sound of this word is quite Victorian in this swinging "Age of Aquarius." Promiscuity is the "in thing to do." Actually when wasn't it? The now generation flaunts sexual freedom like they discovered it? I guess every generation feels the same way, even Adam and Eve. Long before they reach puberty children can be taught restraint. One of my teachers used to offer a prize to the child who could keep still for five minutes. More emphasis could be applied to character building when the child is quite young. Thus, as a young adult, he will be taunted and tempted, but will emerge a stronger victor. We all make mistakes, but rushing a young unwed mother to her neighborhood abortion center is not the answer to our current dilemma.

There are alternatives to abortion, many more than are listed here. These answers are hard to accept and follow through, but then we Americans are a strong, industrious people and we'll rectify our mistakes. Abortion really will not eliminate the poor nor the unwanted child. We must urge our chosen representatives to change this current abortion law that defies all morality. Only God may decree who shall live and who shall die. Today abortion, tomorrow euthanasia. What next! How far will man degrade his species?

SUNY Cutting Back Work On Dormitory Construction

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State University system, facing escalating building costs and changing student attitudes, plans to cut back on dormitory construction over the next five years at an estimated saving of approximately $400 million.

SUNY Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer has announced that the university's Board of Trustees had decided on a basic change in policy concerning the building of residence halls at the 27 state-operated campuses within the system.

The change will eliminate about 30,000 accommodations that originally were planned through 1975, Boyer added, however, that there will be no reduction in enrollment goals.

This means, the chancellor noted, that more students will be attending a SUNY campus close to their homes or else living in nonuniversity facilities.

Boyer cited "spiraling expenses" for dormitory construction as one reason for the building cutbacks. But he also said that a growing number of students prefer to live off campus or at home.

"Students are not excited about institutionalized living," the chancellor added. "There has been an exodus from the facilities the university provides for students. As a result, many dormitory rooms are not occupied."

Boyer outlined the policy change at a rare news conference in the SUNY system's main administrative office here.

The university now charges students $550 a year for room rental. That amount is based on a construction cost of $6,000 per bed. But bids for recent dormitory projects have ranged upward from $7,500 per bed.

Another factor in the decision, Boyer said, is that it has become increasingly difficult to supervise and maintain residence halls. In this state fiscal year, operating costs and debt service — amortization of bond expenditures — total $46 million.

"It seems logical," the chancellor added, "to enroll more nonresident students rather than continue to build high-cost dormitories and then move students back and forth across the state."

Under terms of the original

SUNY plan for building residence halls, close to 70 per cent of the student population would be living in dormitories in 1975. The policy change will reduce this to between 45 and 50 per cent, creating a far different "commuter-noncommuter mix" at the 27 campuses involved.

The university now houses more than 50,000 resident students. Facilities to accommodate another 12,000 are under construction.

The trustees' decision means that an additional 36,000 spaces that were scheduled for construction by 1975 are to be cut to approximately 6,000.

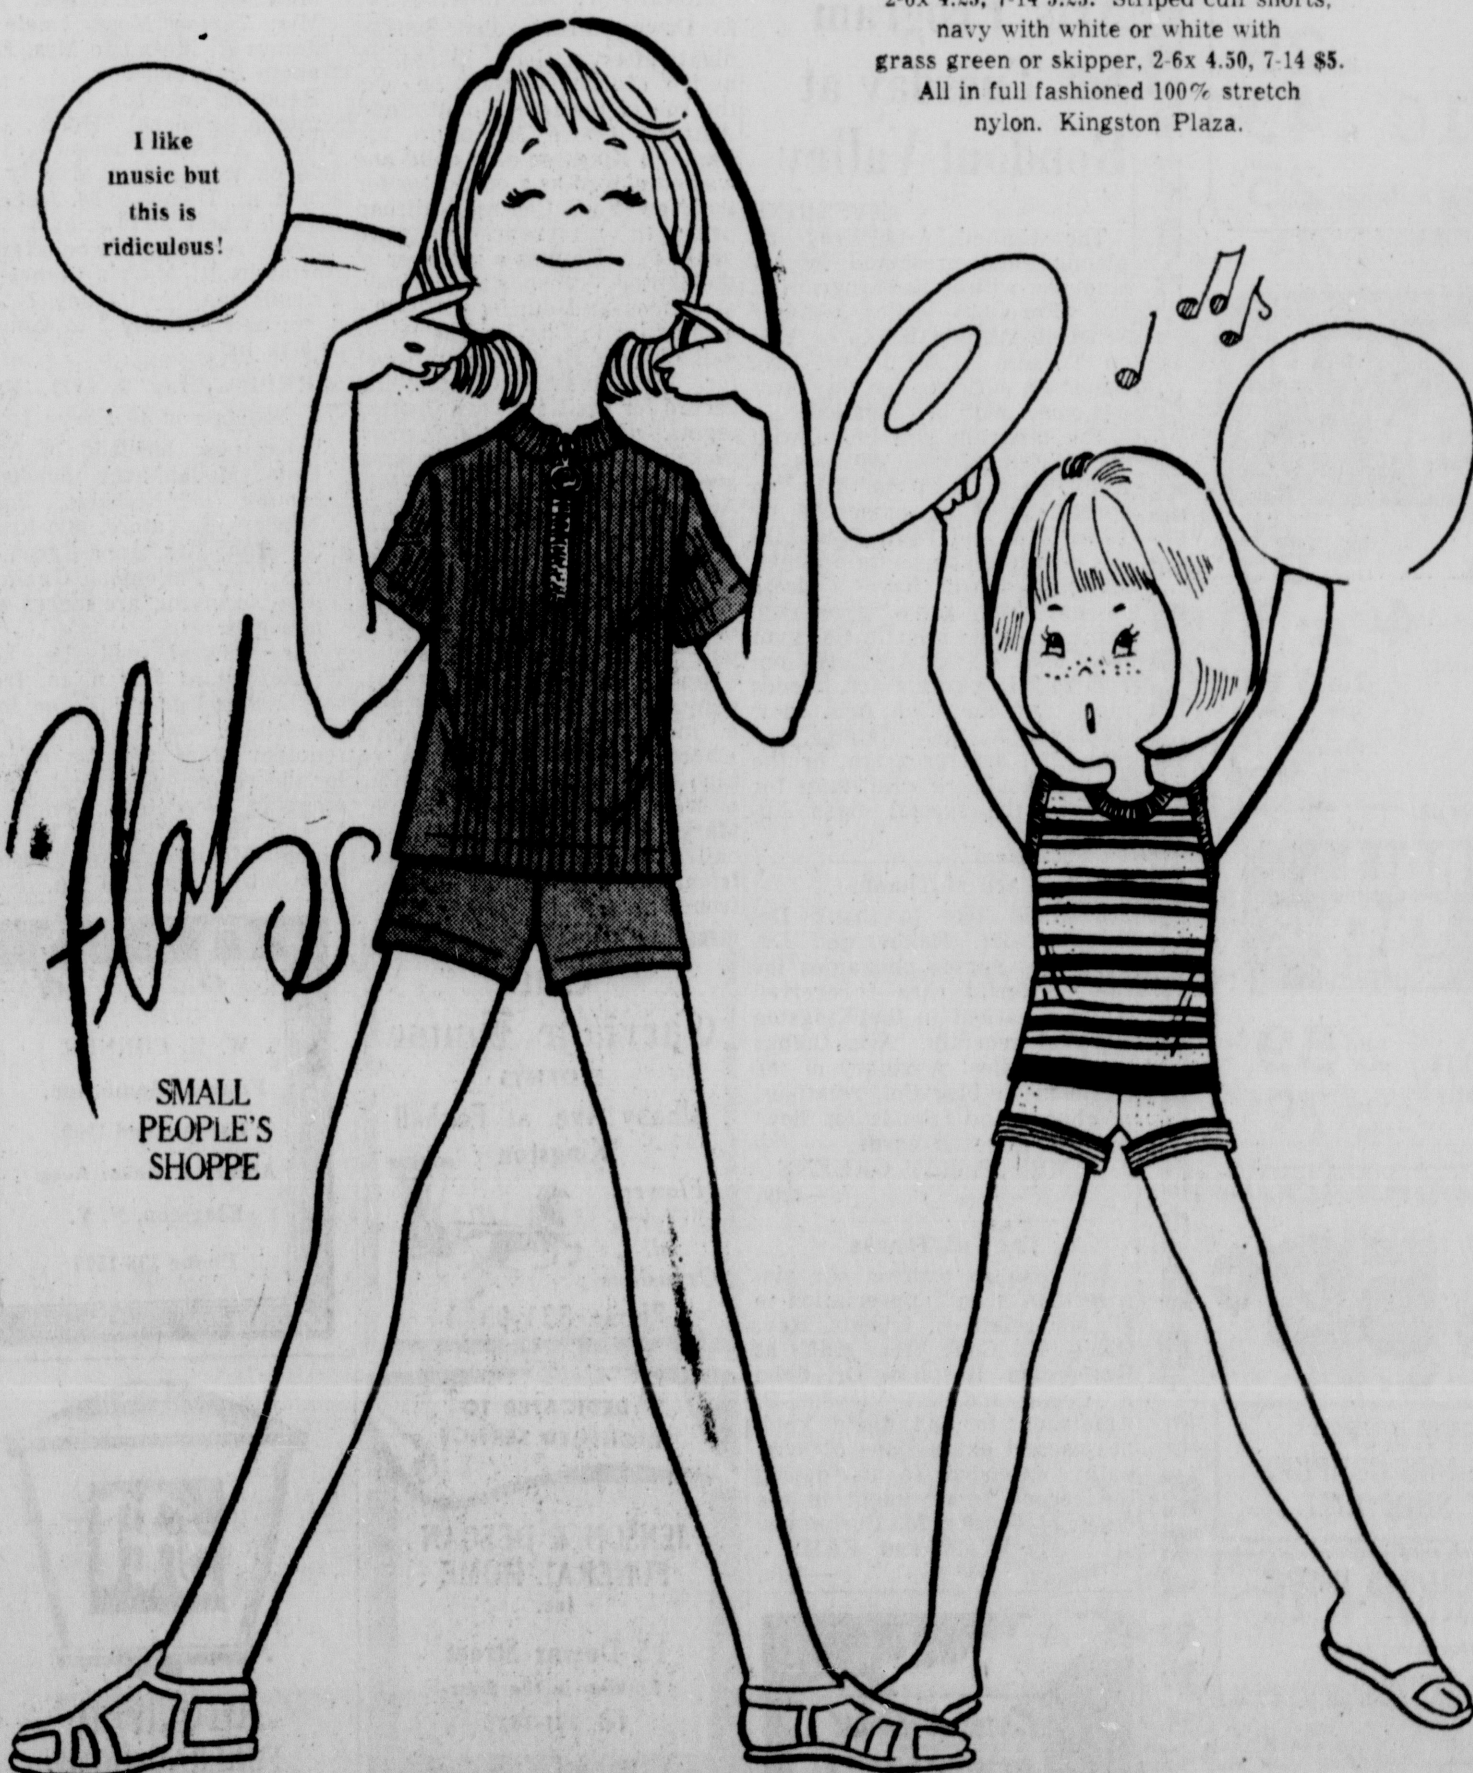

Boyer said he could not specify at this point how the construction cutbacks would affect individual SUNY branches. In general, he said, beds will be provided at the newer campuses and those having specialized programs that attract students from other parts of the state and country.

Meanwhile, the chancellor added, enrollments can be expected to climb more rapidly at SUNY units near urban centers than those in rural areas.

WASHINGTON
The League of Women Voters has announced a comprehensive national position dealing with the control of air pollution and called for action which would bring "noticeable improvement to the environment soon."

The new, far-reaching statement outlining a concerted effort for attaining clean air is a "logical companion to the clean water campaign the League has been waging since 1969," according to the LWV President Mrs. Bruce B. Benson.

Action on air pollution was taken by the League's Board of Directors at a meeting at national headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The clean air position includes:

● Federal standard setting with state and local governments having the right to set more stringent standards.

● Enforcement at the local and state levels with the federal government having ultimate enforcement authority in cases where responsibility is not carried out by other levels of government.

● Business assuming the cost of pollution control with citizens as consumers and taxpayers accepting some pass-on of costs.

● Participation of the public in all phases of decision-making on air pollution control.

Mrs. Benson said, "League members across the country clearly agree that the principal governmental tool to reduce air pollution is setting standards—standards to regulate emissions from both mobile and stationary sources as well as to delineate levels of pollution permitted in the surrounding air—and then forcing polluters (be they industries, governments, or individuals) to comply with those standards."

The League position is based on the premise no one level of government can bear full responsibility for cleaning the air. Mrs. Benson said that, "Leagues agreed that a standard-setting should be primarily a federal responsibility, with lower levels of government having the right to set more stringent standards. Enforcement, they said, must be a shared responsibility: state and local governments should enforce controls and regulations in their jurisdictions, but the federal government must have the power to step in and should do so if officials of lower government levels fail strictly to enforce laws, timetables, and regulations."

"Members noted that everyone pays, and pays dearly, for damage inflicted by pollution," she added.

Russell Train, chairman, President's Council on Environmental Quality, made the following comment on the League's position: "I am delighted that the League of Women Voters will now be able to take an active role in combatting air pollution. The League is doing a tremendous job in the fight against water pollution, and its influence has been felt throughout the country. I look forward to working with the League in national efforts to improve our air quality."

Goals of the League position include:

● Reducing vehicular pollution through emission inspection and controls, changes in engine design, fuel composition and the development of alternate transportation systems.

● Reducing air pollution from stationary sources through emission monitoring requiring controls, full disclosure of pollution data and stronger penalties for violators.

● More citizen representatives on regulatory bodies and easier public access to the courts.

RHINEBECK

The Rhinebeck Village Board of Trustees' regular monthly meeting will be held May 18 instead of May 11, due to the disorganization caused by moving into new village quarters.

Village offices were vacated last week, and workers were in the process of moving water plant signalling equipment this past Friday to the new building. And the Rhinebeck Fire Department is now installed in its new quarters, leaving the old firehouse to its purchaser, the Beekman Arms Hotel.

City Sewer Repair Nears Completion

KINGSTON the city treasurer's office for study.

The Finance, Ways and Means Committee of the Council, chaired by Alderman Edward M. Morton (D-11th Ward) will meet tonight to further discuss a request from the Department of Public Works for fully paid hospitalization.

The Council, in recess since Tuesday night, is expected to return later this week, either Wednesday or Thursday, according to Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo.

Auxiliary Police Meet

The Kingston-Ulster County CD Auxiliary Police will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Odd Fellows Hall, Brewster Street. Members are to report in uniform.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced today that emergency repair work on the O'Neil Street sewer by the James J. Berardi Construction firm will be completed by tomorrow.

The 15-inch main sewer line broke last weekend. Work crews went in on Tuesday and substantially completed repairs late Saturday afternoon.

In other news on streets, Mayor Koenig referred a request from Alderman John R. Machione to ban truck and commercial traffic on Washington Avenue to the Common Council's Traffic Committee for further study.

Another Machione request on the possibility of allowing city taxpayers to pay their general taxes on a monthly or quarterly basis instead of twice a year as now required, was referred to

Wanted Man Nabbed In New Paltz Mishap

NEW PALTZ Investigation by State Police of a two-car collision that occurred on Main Street in this village shortly after midnight Sunday, resulted in the arrest of a 23-year-old Orange County man, who authorities said is wanted for questioning in connection with a New York City homicide.

Lawrence Ray Boone of 21 Landers Street, Newburgh, was committed to Ulster County jail by Town Justice Rexford Schneider in lieu of $5,000 bail fixed after the defendant pleaded innocent to resisting arrest.

After the two cars stopped, Troopers Rebhan and Krasinski arrived and Boone fled on foot through the nearby woods. Boone pursued him and subsequently took him in custody.

Troopers said Boone submitted to a breathalyzer test. A file check with records disclosed an alarm that reported Boone was wanted by New York City police for questioning in connection with a homicide in that city on Nov. 5, 1970, according to troopers.

New York police were notified and detectives were expected to question Boone at the county jail this afternoon. Details of the homicide case were not available.

Continue Probe Of Saugerties Weekend Job

SAUGERTIES Police continued investigation today of a reported weekend burglary at the Columbia Auto Parts, Corp., 262 Main Street, this village. A 19-year-old youth has been arrested on a charge of criminal trespass and other arrests are anticipated.

Sergeant William McPeck noted that Officers Harry Vickery and Louis Barbaria were on patrol at 1:40 a.m. Sunday when they observed a panel truck backed up at the overhead door in the rear of the building at the loading platform.

Subsequent investigation resulted in the questioning of three youths picked up nearby. Later, Francis Sinnott of Box 622, Glasco, was cited for criminal trespass. He was arraigned before Police Justice David Goble, who adjourned hearing pending further investigation until May 18.

Police said the rear door of the building had been jimmied open.

2 Ellenville Arrests By Troopers on Gambling

ELLENVILLE This village, Perez was booked for promoting gambling second degree and possessing gambling records second degree.

Perez pleaded guilty before Village Police Justice Ronald W. Elias. He was fined $125. The woman pleaded guilty to possessing gambling records and was fined $50.

Authorities seized a large quantity of policy slips and other records and $500 in cash.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market opened narrowly lower in moderate trading today.

Shortly after the opening the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips registered at 935.99 off 0.98, while declines led advances 153 to 129 among the 411 issues traded.

U.S. Steel was unchanged at 34 1/4 while Armco eased 3/4 to 20 3/4 and Bethlehem 1/4 to 23 1/4.

General Motors 1st 3/4 to 86 1/4, Ford 1/4 to 65 1/4. Chrysler tacked on 1/4 to 30 1/4.

Fractional losers among oil issues included Phillips by 1/4 to 31, Standard of California 1/4 to 60 1/4, Getty 1/4 to 87 1/4 and Pennzoil 1/4 to 34 1/4. Natamox and Texaco gained 1/4 each to 79 and 37 respectively. Atlantic Richfield was unchanged at 74 1/4, as was Occidental at 21.

Gaining 1/4 in the rail issues were Penn Central to 5 1/4 and Southern Pacific to 40 1/4. Chesapeake & Ohio climbed 1/4 to 61 1/4. Burlington Northern at 48 1/4 and Missouri Pacific at 75 were unchanged.

Lack Expertise Report Reveals On Rail Problem

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt reported Sunday that the breakdown of new cars on the Long Island Railroad could be blamed on shortcomings of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, which operates the railroad.

Dr. William J. Ronan, chairman of the authority, retorted that the report demonstrates a "lack of expertise" in railroad matters.

Levitt, in an 87-page audit of the railroad's operating practices, said that one-fifth of the new Budd cars broke down a week after they were placed in service in 1969.

The MTA hired a consultant to witness testing by the builder and report on the findings. Levitt said, but the procedures were not followed adequately with the result that the MTA accepted defective cars.

Ronan, although he didn't answer the charge directly, said that the LIRR cars entered service with less technical difficulty than comparable equipment introduced on other railroads.

Levitt's office has been making a series of audits of the authority. Some of the material covered in this audit has appeared in earlier audits.

In another section, the report said too much money was being spent to pay workers for flagging duty, which was described as protection for men and equipment endangered by passing trains.

Ronan said the auditors misunderstood the function by using the criteria "of a man waving a flag as an indication that flagging was being performed," when in reality "when a flagman is not waving his flag he is indicating that it is safe for an approaching train to pass."

Levitt's office also suggested that the authority charge more for rentals, leases and sales and keep better records of its equipment.

Time Now To Purchase New Home

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government's top mortgage money man today said now is the time to buy a home, since interest rates have bottomed out from their record highs of a year ago and are not likely to drop further.

Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said "rates don't look like they'll fall much further."

Martin, whose agency supervises some 4,500 savings and loan institutions which supply much of the home mortgage money for consumers, said a nationwide survey showed mortgage rates are about 7 1/2 per cent for a house, varying a half-point or so on either side depending on the section of the country.

A year ago, home mortgage loans carried record interest rates of 8 1/2 per cent or more.

Martin said in an interview the interest rates will remain at the present level for awhile. He withheld a prediction as to how long.

But he did not think the rates would rise in the near future because of the tremendous inflow of money into savings institutions between January and March of this year.

During that period, he said, savings and loans received a record $7.4 billion gain in their assets.

"They've got money to lend," Martin said. "That's one reason why we feel rates won't go up."

Martin said many people have been waiting for money costs to drop before buying a home. He said that period has arrived and "now's the time to buy."

He said the Home Loan Bank Board intends to keep pumping money into savings and loans to keep money rates low. The board makes money available through various loan mechanisms.

"We'll make sure there's a hell of a lot of money around," Martin said.

Martin also reported that small builders, who had been shying away from the housing field because of the high interest rates, are now returning.

Deputies Arrest Fugitive From New Hampshire

STONE RIDGE An extradition hearing was scheduled in County Court later today for Elliott M. Kimball, 40, of Box 194, Tooley Road, this community, who police said is wanted by New Hampshire authorities in connection with the alleged issuance of fraudulent checks.

Kimball was arrested Saturday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Donald Van Aken and Roger Lapp on a warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice. Laconia, N. H., police requested the arrest of the man who was taken into custody or Route 209 near here.

City Firemen Quell Blaze In Local Car

KINGSTON Firemen were dispatched to 381 Delaware Avenue at 4:15 p. m. Sunday to quell fire that erupted in a car owned by John Mazzini at that address. It was reported the fire was caused by the backfire of the carburetor. Deputy Chief Robert Maines was in charge.

Parsells - Philip Wedding Told

MRS. HARRY PHILIP
(Fitzgerald photo)

Miss Donna Parsells, daughter of Mrs. Mae Sauer of Saugerties, became the bride of Harry Philip, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Philip Sr. of Albany Avenue Extension, Kingston, on Sunday, Apr. 25 at St. George Greek Orthodox Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Nicholas Katsoulis officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Francella Smith provided traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of lilies decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Walter Comerford, Camden, Me., the bride selected a princess gown of embroidered organza styled with fine Venice ball lace edging the scooped neckline and cuffs of the bishop sleeves. Her gown featured a butterfly chapel train. She wore a tiered French illusion veil and carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Raylyn Parsells of Cambridge, Mass. was maid of honor for her sister in a gown of navy and white floral print fashioned in the empire A-line. The gown was styled with a high collar and bishop sleeves and featured a cum-berbund of navy. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies. Attendants were Sheila Comerford, cousin of the bride, Camden, Me.; Barbara Philip, University of Brockport; Sandy Philip, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Schenectady; and William Kilquest of University of Southern Illinois.

Michael Philip Jr. of Kingston served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Michael Dibble of Poughkeepsie; George Philip, brother of the bridegroom, Schenectady; and William Kilquest of University of Southern Illinois.

A reception for 130 guests was held at the reception room of the church.

For her wedding trip, the bride selected a white pantsuit and brown accessories. The bride, a graduate of Chapel Hill School for Girls, Waltham, Mass. and Bay Path College for Women, Long Meadow, Mass., is a bookkeeper at Kingston Credit Bureau.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, received his degree in electrical engineering from University of Buffalo. He is employed as an engineer at Hudson Cement.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Miss Sally Llanes Weds John W. Letus

Miss Sally Ann Llanes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Llanes of Kingston, exchanged nuptial vows with John Walter Letus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Letus of Kingston, Sunday, May 2 at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale.

The Rev. Robert Saccoman of St. Peter's Church in Rosendale officiated at the double ring ceremony. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an empire gown of chiffon satepeau and lace with a demibell silhouette. The gown featured Camelot sleeves and a high neckline. Matching lace shaped a tiered bow for her headpiece and held a floor length French illusion veil. She carried a cascade of miniature white carnations and baby's breath centered with a removable corsage of carnations.

Mrs. Maria Suominen of Ulster Park was matron of honor for her sister in an aqua A-line gown styled with chiffon sleeves and a high neckline accented with white flowered lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of aqua miniature carnations and pink baby's breath.

Attendants were Miss Frances Van Houten, cousin of the bride, Highland Mills; Miss

MRS. JOHN W. LETUS
(Lakeside Studio)

Darlene Hotaling, Kingston. Miss Betty Ann Van Houten, cousin of the bride, Highland Mills, served as junior bridesmaid. Their pink gowns were similar in styling to that of the honor attendant's. The attendants carried fireside baskets of pink carnations and aqua baby's breath and the junior bridesmaid carried a nosegay of pink roses surrounded by pink miniature carnations and aqua baby's breath.

Arne Suominen Jr., brother-in-law of the bride, Ulster Park, was best man. Ushers were Anthony Wittek, Saugerties; and Joseph LaLima Jr., both cousins of the bridegroom. Junior usher was Bill Letus, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception for 85 guests was held at Chef-Jo-Mar, New Paltz.

For her wedding trip to Cove Haven in the Pocono Mountains, Pennsylvania, the bride selected a purple satin pants suit with white accessories.

The bride will be graduated this year from Kingston High School. She is employed by Grand Union, Plaza Road.

Her husband, a 1970 graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by Fabbie Brothers of Kingston. He is now serving in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Gottcent - Sermier Wedding Reported Here

Church of St. Vincent Ferrer in New York was the setting for the marriage of Miss Virginia Mary Gottcent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Richard Gottcent of New York, and Edward Marcel Sermier of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sermier of Bloomington, on Saturday, May 8.

The Rev. Joseph Allen officiated at the double ring ceremony assisted by Michael Himes, cousin of the bride, who served as deacon. Yellow and white pompons and chrysanthemums decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an ivory organza gown with Alencon lace. She carried a bouquet of white lilies, lilies of the valley and baby's breath.

Miss Noreen Leonard of Manhattan served as maid of honor in a white silk gown imprinted with green flowers. She carried a bouquet of ivy.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Nancy Nadurak of Manhattan and Claudia Gottcent of Pompton Lakes, N.J., godchild of the bride. Their gowns were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's.

Robert F. Sermier of Boston, Mass. was best man for his brother. Ushers were Capt. Paul Fazackerley of Troy and David J. Gottcent, brother of the bride, New York.

A reception for 150 guests was held at Hampshire House, 150 Central Park South, Manhattan.

For her wedding trip to Switzerland, the bride selected a black gabardine coat with natural straw hat.

The bride, a graduate of Academy of St. Francis Xavier High School and College of Mount St. Vincent in Riverdale, is employed as analyst at Bankers Trust Company, Park Avenue, New York. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Manhattan College in Riverdale, spent a year in Vista assigned to Hull House in Chicago. He is now serving in the U.S. Army stationed in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Sermier will reside at Gramercy Park in New York.

Sewing Contest, Fashion Show Report

Mrs. John Gill of Hurley was hostess to Sorosis on Monday, May 3. Mrs. Henry Elghmey, president of the club, presided at the business meeting. In her report on the sewing contest and fashion show, she said the contest, held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Reynolds Sr. on April 19 with 34 entrants from Kingston Junior High School and BOCES, was deemed successful by the students, teachers and members of Sorosis. She suggested next year's contest and fashion show be held in a larger facility so as to accommodate all entrants the schools may wish to send.

A nominating committee was named by the president and asked to present a slate of officers at the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. James B. Shelhorse in Hurley at 10 a.m. on Monday, May 17.

A decision was made to send an Ada Franklin Young scholarship application to the Kingston High School guidance Department for use by a deserving senior girl student recommended by them.

Miss Martha Freer entertained the club with slides and anecdotes about her trip last summer to Vienna and Salzburg, Austria.

Mrs. Shelhorse poured.

Former Resident Noted TV Art Director, Designer

Mrs. Bernard (Virginia) Carpinelli of Kingston has just returned from a trip to Rome, Italy, where she visited a lifelong friend, Welter "Budd" Holden, formerly Welter Schettmann Jr. of Kingston, noted television art director and interior designer.

Holden began work as assistant art director for NBC television in Burbank, California, in 1956, working on early color television shows such as "Matinee Theatre," an dthe first Dean Martin Special. He later assisted E. Jay Krause on the Bob Hope Shows, Milton Berle shows and Shirley Temple Fairy Tale series, and worked as art director on George Gobel and Eddie Fisher series as well as three years on the Dinah Shore Chevy Show. While in Los Angeles, he was employed by the late John Byers, A.I.A., one of California's most famous architects.

During his NBC television years, he also began work as an interior designer for homes in Beverly Hills, working with many stars including Mitzi Gaynor, Janet Blair, Johnny Mathis, Lisa Kirk and others connected with the motion picture industry. Early in 1961, he opened an antique shop in the decorating center in Los Angeles and also became a licensed contractor as well as designer-decorator. Among homes he has designed and built are those for Debbie Reynolds, Dan Rowan of Laugh In, Roy Ash, president of Litton Industries and Marlo Thomas of That Girl Series, and famous Hollywood restaurants, The Brown Derby, for the late Bob Cobb.

Another facet of his career as designer has taken him from Aspen, Colorado, where he designed ski lodges, to El Paso, Texas, to design the Amen Wardy Fashion House, to San Francisco to create the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency quarters in the new Golden Gate Tower, and back to Los Angeles again for J.W.T. Agency to design their West Coast offices, working directly with Robert Halderman who is now one of President Nixon's closest advisors.

Holden's design career has now branched off into another new direction which has taken him to live in Rome, Italy, where he is designing and manufacturing a fine line of furniture which ranges from contemporary "steel and glass" to authentic reproductions of 17th and 18th century antiques. These new items will be warehoused and sold in Los Angeles beginning this fall. This new activity has not taken him completely out of the Hollywood scene because he has just completed, with his associate, Marco Wolff Jr. of Los Angeles, the Glen Campbell house to be constructed in the Hollywood Hills.

A graduate of Kingston High School where he majored in art under the guidance of Althea O'Dell, Holden attended Pratt Institute for four years of architectural and interior design. After Pratt he spent two years in the U.S. Army, mostly in Europe. After release from service, he attend the University of Mexico in Mexico City for a winter quarter where he also assisted in the instruction of architectural drafting.

He is the son of the late Marion Schettmann who operated the Crown Street Bus Terminal Restaurant and Marion's Restaurant on North Front Street in Kingston. His sister is Mrs. Ronald Deyo of Woodstock and his aunt and uncle are Mrs. Evelina Myer and Glen Holden of Saugerties.

Holden is married to Gloria Wolff Holden who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marco Wolff of Beverly Hills, Cal. Mr. Wolff is the "Marco" of former vaudeville team, Fanchon and Marco, who once played the Orpheum theatre in Saugerties, and later owned and operated one of the largest independent theatre chains in America, including the old Roxy in New York City. Mr. and Mrs. Holden have two daughters, Susan who is residing in Beverly Hills and working for the Bob Hope Productions, and Sandra, attending Loyola University in Rome.

The apartment in which the

Holdens reside is located in one of the most important positions in Rome. Overlooking the city, atop the Spanish Steps in Italy, it is known as an attico (penthouse). The building dates from the late 18th century. The apartment had not been occupied for years and starting from bare walls, Holden has turned out a Shangri-la in Rome.

65th Anniversary Observed

Noble Grand Florence Tompkins presided at the 65th anniversary meeting of Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge No. 34 held Tuesday evening, May 4, in Odd Fellows Temple. The following honored guests were introduced by the conductor and welcomed by the noble grand: Kathryn Corcoran, district deputy president of Ulster District; Jennie Pond, past assembly chaplain; Hattie Pelquin, past assembly inside guardian; Gladys DeNike, past assembly color bearer; Irene Husaple, past assembly marshal; Marion Bouchier, past assembly musician; Viva Davis, past assembly left herald; Florence Gippert, past assembly musician; Ethel Jehle assembly right herald; Selma Judin, past president of the Rebekah Assembly. The Rebekah degree was conferred under the direction of Degree Mistress Anna Minkler and Selma Judin was keynote speaker.

Florence Gippert presented 50 year Jewels to Dorothy Spring and Florence Nieffer. Bessie Kamp will also receive one but was unable to be present. The one remaining charter member, Ann Lang, who is confined to a nursing home will receive an arrangement of flowers and the usual gift. The gift committee presented gifts to all the honored guests. Guests were present from Bearsville, Kingston, Olivebridge, West Saugerties, Highland, Catskill, Hunter, Poughkeepsie, and New York numbering 103.

The meeting for May 18 will be called for 7:30 p.m. and at 8:30 p.m. a card and bunco party will be held to which the public is invited. All members are asked to donate gifts for the occasion.

Guest Speaker Is Announced For Rural Urban Luncheon

DR. TED T. GREEDA

Ecology, Recycling To Be AAUW Topics

Mrs. Richard Kobran, co-chairman of the Ulster County Environmental Task Force, will address the regular meeting of the American Association of University Women, Kingston branch on Tuesday, May 11 at 8 p. m. in the YWCA on Clinton Avenue.

The Environmental Task Force is an outgrowth of the Chamber of Commerce TCD (Total Community Development) Program, a four part field of interest encompassing Drugs, Environment, Housing and Education. Howard Rust of Kingston is co-chairman with Mrs. Kobran of this three month embryo group which has been encountering great interest and cooperation among the young people of the area and various organizations such as the YWCA.

Mrs. Kobran stresses the effectiveness of Citizen Action Accomplishment and strongly recommends the additional pressure value of individual letter writing by club and association members to our local and state legislators in order to protest any ecological abuse.

The Task Force conducts well-publicized meetings every other week in the Kingston area, provides speakers to disseminate information to interested groups and communities and is attempting to coordinate the many varied anti-pollution/ecology groups which are springing up all over the county. Mrs. Kobran assures the welcome use of any of the knowledge, material and research, which the Environmental Task Force has already experienced, to any Ulster County residents concerned with the environmental problems of our times.

The Kingston branch of AAUW will be drawing its '70-71 program to a close with its annual picnic in June. It has conducted many thought-provoking meetings with speakers who reach out and bring personal knowledge to us of the critical problems surrounding us. At a recent meeting of AAUW, two speakers from Renaissance, Ellenville, Carl Morgan and Lois Powers told plainly and effectively of their involvement with the drug scene and how Renaissance House is attempting to help them.

Renaissance in Ellenville is sponsored by the Mental Health Association of Westchester, N. Y. and is an offshoot of a store-front therapy program down there. It provides complete withdrawal from the community, where members attempt to live and relate honestly to one another in a home situation, doing all their own cooking, housekeeping, and labor about the house and being provided with psychiatric help and group therapy in a last-ditch struggle against the inroads drugs have made upon them and others.

If these and similar programs are of concern to prospective women members, they should contact Mrs. Robert Resta, president of the Kingston branch of AAUW for detailed information. Annual dues are now being accepted and this would be an ideal time to participate in this association.

Dear Abby

Smack, Dab.... Right in Kisser

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a musician who plays first trumpet with a well-known band. We have a great relationship in every way but one. He is very stingy with his kisses. He says if he engages in too much kissing his lips will become "tender" and it will affect his trumpet playing.

Don't get me wrong, Abby. He is a very romantic and loving guy, and he's great with the follow-thru, but he prefers to skip the kissing.

Is he putting me on. Or do all sweethearts and wives of trumpet players get cheated on kisses because their men have to protect their lips?

—WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: Take it from the lips of those pros who responded to my telephone inquiry with the following quotes:

HARRY JAMES (world-famous veteran trumpet player, Las Vegas) "That guy must be kidding. I've been doing both for over 35 years and so far I haven't had to give up either one, thank heavens!"

HERB ALPERT (leader of Tijuana Brass) "All I can say is that kissing has improved my tongue. For whatever that's worth."

"DOC" SEVERINSEN (leader of Johnny Carson show orchestra) "If that guy isn't putting his girl on, tell him to live with the pain. My wife says if I ever started to ration my kisses to save my lips, it would be the end of our marriage."

RAY ANTHONY (world famous orchestra leader, top notch trumpet player) "If kissing actually harms his lips, then there must be something wrong with his arrangements."

ROBERT DI VALL (first trumpet player with Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra) "Any musician who must curtail his kissing because of his trumpet playing will never do either one very well."

PETE CANDOLI (first trumpet, Merv Griffin show) "From hot pants to hot lips! If he has to be that careful of his precious lips, he should get them insured with Lloyds of London, or give up the trumpet."

"DIZZY" GILLESPIE (veteran trumpet soloist) "It's not good to kiss on the days you play. It's all right on your days off, tho. Kissing keeps your chops flexible."

"CAT" ANDERSON (played with Duke Ellington for 25 years) "What? Say, that's the best laugh I've had in years. No, it isn't true. Kissing and playing that trumpet require two entirely different techniques, so there must be something wrong with the way he kisses."

JACK FEIERMAN (conductor and first trumpet player with Andy Williams, also with Jack Benny) "Kissing is all right. Just don't bite!"

MANNIE KLEIN (played trumpet with nearly all the top bands) "That guy is putting her on. Kissing won't hurt him, unless she has buck teeth!"

HARRY "SWEETS" EDISON (first trumpet with Count Basie and Frank Sinatra) "The more he kisses, the sweeter he'll play. There's nothin' like sweet and tender lovin' lips."

LOUIS PRIMA (veteran trumpet player for over 30 years) "The more kissing, the better the embouchure. Kissing strengthens the lip muscles, so he's got to be putting her on."

MIKE NATALE (first trumpet on the Mike Douglas show) "The boy friend must be kidding. Kissing is good therapy for sore lips."

AL HIRT (one of the greatest trumpet players who's ever drawn a breath) "The greatest joy of my life is kissing my wife on the lips, and it's never adversely affected my trumpet playing."

DEAR AL: I'll take your word for it, but I'd like to ask your wife if your trumpet playing has affected your playing has affected your doesn't one "HIRT" the other. (Forgive me, I couldn't resist that one.)

Celebrates 71st Year With Spring Concert

The Woman's Chorale of New Paltz College will present its 71st Annual Spring Concert in the McKenna Theatre, this evening, beginning at 8:30. The Chorale, founded in 1900, is one of the oldest organizations on campus which is still in existence.

An exciting program of festive music is planned including a performance of Mozart's "Sinfonia Concertante," for orchestra, featuring members of the New Paltz faculty Woodwind Quintet: Martin Sperber, oboe; Peter Alexander, clarinet; William McCann, French horn; and Keith McClelland, bassoon. All are members of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra.

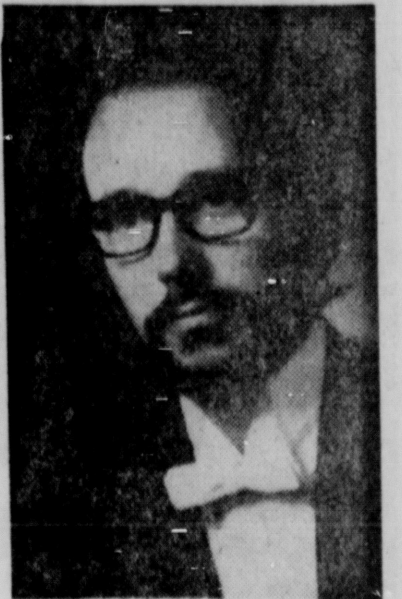

Also included on the first part of the concert will be Johann Hasse's Baroque setting of the "Miserere" for women's chorus, orchestra and soloists. Vocalists will include, Barbara Hargrave, Nancy Hunziker, and Grace Ryerson, sopranos; Margot Brockmeyer, mezzosoprano; and the Mary Maresca, contralto.

A Brahms' Work
The Women's Chorale will be featured in a performance of Brahms' "Lieder und Romanzen," part songs, Opus 44. This work includes 12 settings of German and Austrian folk songs in Brahms' popular style. Colette Trouve, a music major from Elmont, will be featured at the piano. Miss Trouve is accompanist for the Chorale, and is a piano student of Harry Jensen.

Members of the Chorale will also sing several Mozart canons for equal voices, as well as a Choral Suite entitled: "The Birds," by the black American composer, Ulysses Kay, with texts drawn from various poetic sources.

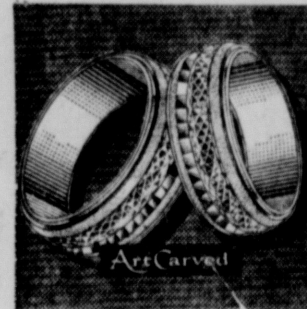

This program is being partially funded by the New York State Council on the Arts, through the grant provided to the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, and the Associated Colleges of the Mid-Hudson area. Lee H. Pritchard, of the College's Music Department, and Musical Director of the Women's Chorale will conduct the ensemble for this gala program. There is no admission charge in McKenna Theatre, and there is no reserved seating.

Hair Provides a Growing Problem for Area Barbers

By HUGH REYNOLDS

THE PROBLEM

KINGSTON — In the not too distant past the site of a male, young, old or in between with a head of wild long hair would warm the cockles of a barber's heart. Surely no self-respecting man or boy would be caught in public with hair down below his ears. But times change. Hair is in. The more the better. And barbers find themselves on the inside (of their shops) looking out at a world that has increasingly less use for their services. In a sense, local barbers are suffering through "a long day's night," to quote the title of a hit recording by a group that has become their arch enemies. "It started when those hippies came here. Those Beatles. It's been bad ever since." That from Mike Amato, owner of the Gov. Clinton Tonsorial Parlor and president of Local 534 of the Hudson Valley Barber Association, AFL-CIO. Amato was one of several barbers interviewed by The Freeman on the effect of the modern trend toward longer hair on their business. The answer, without exception was "bad, and it can only get worse."

Frank Gualtieri, owner of Frank's Barber Shop at 594 Delaware Avenue, mirrored his colleague's assessment of the situation: "More and more guys are going for the long stuff. They say I'll let it grow. It would be self defeating." Sayle Ferraro, up the street at Sayle's Barbershop was asked, "How's business." "It's dead," was his brief reply. "We used to have two chairs in the shop. Now we can't fill one. We used to get all the kids from the high school. Now they just walk by."

Ferraro also agrees that the Beatles "started it." "Some kids haven't had a haircut since they came here."

Joseph Lawson at Joe's Barber Shop at 346 Broadway, caters to the Negro trade. And he says he's in trouble, too. "The Afro is our problem," he said. "It doesn't matter if its up over your head (the Afro) or down on your shoulders. It's all long hair and it's hurt business tremendously. Unless a man goes into hair styling, he can't make it."

Lawson doesn't blame the Beatles on his dilemma but rather an emergence of what he calls black cultural awareness. "More and more blacks are becoming aware of and taking pride in their African heritage," Lawson says. "Ergo, Afro's are in and Lawson is contemplating working hours to make up the slack of customers who used to come in regularly but who now come in only every six weeks or two months or so."

None of the barbers interviewed, think the price of a haircut is a factor in the public's avoidance of barbershops. That price has increased from $1.75 to $2.25 in the past seven years. "When a man wants a good haircut he doesn't ask about price," is the way Amato, the union leader, puts it.

Fred Bayona at the Stuyvesant Barbershop on Fair Street, goes along with the general consensus of opinion. "We still get our steadies but we don't see them as often."

Celentino (Chill) Caruso, down at the Plaza Barbershop, figures that things started to go down hill about a year and a half ago. "Business started to go bad in October of 1969," he said. "It kept going down in 1970 and I think it'll be even worse this year."

While some of the other barbers see long hair as a trend that will (hopefully) die out (much like the crewcut) Caruso thinks that long locks are here to stay for awhile. "We've had trends in the past," he observed, "but this is something different. Everything's gone mod, shoes, clothes, everything. Long hair just a part of it."

Caruso noted that 2,700 barbershops closed in 1969,

Scott Accepts This Accolade

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — George C. Scott, who rejected a movie Oscar for "Patton," has won a television Emmy for "The Price." A friend says Scott accepts the honor for best single performance by an actor.

"Oh, my God, it's George C. Scott!" Suzanne Pleshette cried as she opened the envelope at Sunday night's 23rd Television Academy Emmy Awards, echoing Goldie Hawn's announcement of best-actor honors at the recent movie Academy Awards.

Scott's actor friend Jack Cassidy came to the stage and said: "If he were here he'd say a simple single 'thank you.'"

Backstage, Cassidy said of Scott, who is making a film in New York: "The mere fact that he asked me to accept—that in itself is an acceptance."

Scott had criticized the Oscar presentations as "a two-hour meat parade" and the voting as encouraging undesirable competition among actors. Backers of Oscar nominees often ballyhoo their candidate in trade paper advertising.

Cassidy told newsmen Scott apparently approves of the Emmy because "there's a different structure to the voting."

Instead of Academy-wide voting for Oscar, the Television Academy awards are decided by an anonymous "blue-ribbon" panel of actors, film editors and other professionals.

In "The Price," from Arthur Miller's stage play, Scott played a New York policeman clashing in a taut drama with his brother, played by Barry Sullivan, over their past treatment of their father.

Scott was nominated for Emmys three times before but never won.

"The Price," shown Feb. 3 on NBC, also won Emmys for a supporting performance, David Burns, and direction, Fielder Cook.

Chosen the outstanding single program of the year ended March 16 was "The Andersonville Trial" on the Public Broadcasting Service. The Hollywood Television Theater drama was about the heartless commander of the Confederate Frost, was a winner.

It's more than a tree. It's fresh air.

An acre of young trees can produce enough oxygen to keep 18 people alive for a year. Breathe deep. Only you can prevent forest fires.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current regular price less the following dollar allowances:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance

Old Met Magic—Back Again

RAISING A LITTLE DUST — Astros' John Edwards (7) falls over second base but before Phils' Denny Doyle can tag him out when he attempted to make his single into a double in the sixth inning in Philadelphia. Phils won 2-1. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

By United Press International
That old Met Magic of 1969 seems to be working again and turning up heroes like — are you ready for this name — Tim Foli.

You remember 1969, of course, when the meek Mets inherited the baseball earth with the most startling World Series upset of all time. Then, there was 1970, when it all didn't work again and the heroes of 1969 finished the season exchanging churlish and the St. Louis Cardinals. But now it's 1971 and the game. "I have to stay sharp to get a Mets are rolling again — up lot when I'm not playing so the front in the National League's guys on the bench tell me to go Eastern Division race by a half sit in a corner. They used to game — and producing a hero a call me Crazy Horse but now day to keep the other conten- it's a promotion."

Foli, who considers himself a shortstop but is an all-purpose infielder in Met Manager Gil Hodges' own little world of baseball strategy, drove in four runs with a triple and a single Sunday to lead New York to a 9-5 victory over Steve Carlton of the St. Louis Cardinals. 6½ innings with Ron Taylor and great talent who could suddenly develop into a star. His 3-for-4 day Sunday lifted his batting average to .300 but, more important, he could be the cure-all for the Mets' platooning problems at either third or second base.

Mack Jones drove in five runs with a two-run homer in the fourth and a three-run homer in the fifth as Bill Stoneman pitched a seven-hitter and struck out 11 for his fourth victory for the Expos. Bob Bailey also homered for the Expos while Jim Hickman connected for the Cubs. Milt Pappas, rapped for eight hits and six runs in 4½ innings, lost his fourth game.

Barry Lersch won his third game with a five-hitter when Tim McCarver singled home Willie Montanez, who had doubled, with two out in the ninth inning. Houston's Jack Billingham was tagged with his third loss against one victory.

Rookie pinch-hitter Charlie Sands capped an eight-run rally in the eighth inning with a three-run double as the Pirates rallied for their triumph over the Dodgers. Bob Veale, who pitched 1½ innings of shutout relief, won his first game although Jim Grant finished up while Pete Mikkelsen lost for the Dodgers.

Clay Kirby struck out 12 batters and spaced nine hits to win his first game as the Padres, who staked him to a 6-0 lead in the first inning against the Reds' Jim McGlothlin. Ed Spiezio hit a three-run triple and Dave Campbell and Bob Barton each homered for the Padres. The loss was McGlothlin's third against one victory.

Ralph Garr, the NL's leading hitter with a .416 average, went 1-for-4 in the first game but 4-for-5 in the second in the Atlanta San Francisco split.

Willie Mays hit his 635th career homer and Chris Speier had three hits for the Giants in the first game as Steve Stone won his third game with relief help from Don McMahon. Earl Williams' 10th-inning single scored Garr from second base with the run that gave the Braves their second game victory.

The Oakland Athletics may not be hitting, but who needs hitting when you have Vida Blue and Jim "Catfish" Hunter pitching for you every four days.

The Athletics do not have a regular player hitting over .265 and are hitting less than .240 as a team, but thanks to the superb pitching of Blue and Hunter they boast a 4-1-2 game lead in the American League's Western Division.

Blue and Hunter both turned in four-hitters Sunday as the Athletics swept a doubleheader from the Baltimore Orioles, 6-2 and 2-1, and the two pitchers have combined for 13 of the Athletics' 21 victories to date.

The work of these two pitchers brings back memories of 1965 when the Los Angeles Dodgers, who batted only .245 as a team, won the pennant in the National League behind the pitching of Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, who won 49 games between them.

Hunter, who is 5-2, allowed only one hit over the first six innings in the first game before Brooks Robinson spoiled his shutout bid with a homer in the seventh. Boog Powell also homered for Baltimore in the eighth but Hunter benefited from a nine-hit attack and triggered a four-run sixth inning with a run-sc

Canadiens Rally For First Victory

By JOE MOOSHIL

Associated Press Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — "I told them to keep skating and driving because we were out, shooting them and something had to happen," Montreal Canadiens Coach Al MacNeil recalled.

What happened was that the Canadiens, down 2-0 in games and 2-0 on the scoreboard after one period of Sunday's National Hockey League playoff game, took his advice.

They swarmed all over Chicago, tied the game after two periods, then beat the Black Hawks 4-2 for their first victory in the best-of-seven championship.

"We made a hell of a comeback," said Frank Mahovlich, who scored two of the goals, his 12th and 13th to tie the NHL playoff scoring record.

His younger brother, Pete, had put the Canadiens on the scoreboard after Cliff Koroll and Bobby Hull had connected for the Hawks in the opening period.

Frank tied it in the closing minutes of the second, Yvan Cournoyer took Terry Harper's perfect set-up pass and whipped in the winner at 6:23 of the third period and the senior Mahovlich wrapped it up about six minutes later.

MacNeil didn't give the Canadiens any pep talk after the first period but presented them the facts.

"I told them we had a 13-8 edge in shots on goal but were still losing 2-0 but to keep skating and things would work out. If we skate and stay on top of them, I'll take my chances. This is the first time in this series that we finished strong."

Someone asked the jut-jawed MacNeil if the Canadiens could go all the way now.

"I wouldn't be here if I didn't think that," he snapped.

One of the happiest of the Canadiens was Harper, the victim of constant booing by fickle fans. It started again when Harper took the puck in Canadiens' zone early in the third period, continued as he skated over his own blue line and reached a peak when he hit center ice.

Mild cheers began as he entered the Hawks' zone and the fans went wild when he broke attempted checks by Keith Magnuson and Stan Mikita to give Cournoyer the puck for the winning score.

Then the fans stood up and gave Harper a standing ovation.

"Is that the first time you've had a standing ovation?" someone asked. "Here, yes," he smiled.

Harper said that on his rush, he went around Chicago's Keith Magnuson on the right side and fired the puck around to the opposite corner.

"I picked it up there again and then, Stan Mikita tried to hit me, but I got away from him," Harper said. "Then Magnuson had another try but I pumped him and then went back for the puck."

"I looked out in front and saw both Cournoyer and John Ferguson all alone there and I couldn't believe it."

Cournoyer held the puck for what seemed like an interminably long second while goalie Tony Esposito held his ground, then rifled it past the helpless Chicago netminder.

Esposito was the primary reason the final score was even close. As the weary Hawks' defense repeatedly broke down or was forced to play short-handed due to penalties—he made one incredible save after another as the Canadiens unleashed a 40-shot assault while Chicago managed only 18 at Ken Dryden in the Montreal goal.

Hawks Coach Billy Reay said he felt referee John Ashley's officiating had a lot to do with the outcome.

"The turning point came just before Pete Mahovlich scored in the second period," Reay said.

"He hooked Magnuson. He should've been penalized for it. If that didn't call for a penalty, I'm a Dutchman."

Mikita, who set up the first, Chicago goal while the Hawks enjoyed a man advantage, echoed Reay's sentiments.

Laver Is on Mend

ROME (UPI)—Rod Laver's back problems apparently are over.

Laver, who suffered a back injury in Dallas last week, showed no ill effects in crushing Arthur Ashe of Gum Spring, Va., 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 Sunday to move into the finals of the $50,000 Rome International Tennis Tournament.

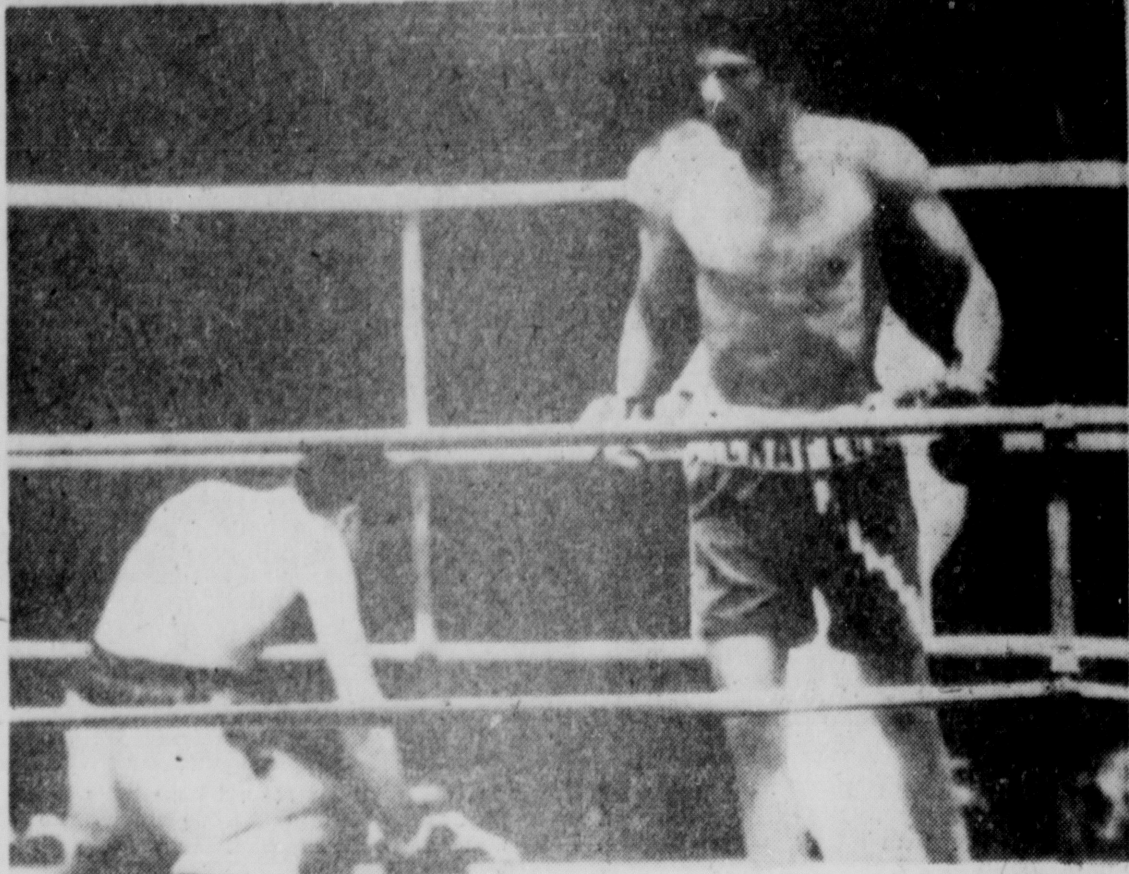

Laver will meet Jan Kodes, who qualified by beating Tom Okker of the Netherlands, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4, in today's final round.

Laver, who had been favoring the injured back through the early rounds of the tournament, cut loose Sunday and demolished Ashe for the seventh consecutive time. The hard-hitting Australian did not lose a service in the match as he took advantage of an obviously rattled Ashe.

"I think he began trying too hard there in the second set and was rushing his shots," said Laver, who added that his back felt better than it had all week.

"The Tehran tournament next week will be my last before Wimbledon," he said. "I need a rest. I haven't been home in Australia but two weeks in nearly a year and I just want to relax and spend some time at home."

Kodes, who beat top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia and Tony Roche en route to the finals, started slowly but took over in the ninth game of the fourth set.

END OF NINO — Carlos Monzon stands victoriously over Nino Benvenuti after knocking him down for second time in title bout Saturday at Monaco Stadium, Italy. Monzon retained title when Benvenuti's manager threw in the towel in the third round of the scheduled 15-round bout. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

Foreman-Peralta
Head Triple-Bill

By United Press International

A heavyweight title hopeful and two former WBA title holders highlight the unique boxing tripleheader to be staged in three locations tonight and telecast as a boxing extravaganza on closed-circuit television.

George Foreman, the undefeated former Olympic champion who's being brought along gradually for an eventual shot at champion Joe Frazier, faces Argentina's Greg Peralta in the feature match at the Oakland Coliseum.

Ernie Terrell, a former WBA titleholder, opens the tripleheader at the Chicago Amphitheatre against Luis, Faustino Pires and Jimmy Ellis, also a former WBA titlist, follows against Canadian George Chuvalo at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

The Foreman-Peralta bout is scheduled for 15 rounds, while the others are slated for 10 rounds each.

Foreman, a hulking 22-year-old, had trouble with Peralta in their first meeting and took an unpopular decision from the 36-year-old Argentinian. But he predicted less trouble tonight.

"I hope to knock him out," said Foreman. "I don't mean to belittle the man but I don't think he can knock me out and I believe I can put him away. Anyway, I'll surely be trying to do just that."

Peralta, who has won five consecutive bouts since losing to Foreman, thinks his stamina will carry him to an upset victory.

"I plan to stay away from him in the early rounds," said the veteran Peralta. "And then when he gets tired around the 10th or so, I plan to go after him. I know he can't fight 15 rounds. He tired badly in our last fight."

Peralta will give away 28 pounds in weight to the 218-pound Foreman but added: "I fought Oscar Bonavena to a draw and gave away almost as much weight."

Terrell, the 6-foot-6 veteran, says he's stronger now than when he held the WBA title. He began a comeback in December after a three-year layoff and is favored over Pires, the Brazilian heavyweight champion.

Ellis, nearly 10 pounds lighter and claiming to be much quicker than in his brief title days, is rated evenly against the relentless Chuvalo. Chuvalo, at 214, will outweigh Ellis by about 20 pounds.

WITHERS WINNER — Bold Reasoning, with Jacinto Vasquez aboard, wins the $50,000 Withers Race at Aqueduct Saturday. Highbinder (L) ridden by Robert Woodhouse, came in second while Salem, with John L. Rotz up in the irons, placed third. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Unbeaten Bold Reasoning

Withers Winner
To Skip Preakness

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Bold Reasoning is a colt who will do anything for you, says jockey Jacinto Vasquez. Maybe he'll even clear up the question of who's the boss of racing's unpredictable 3-year-old division.

But he won't do it in Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico.

"No, we definitely will not supplement to the Preakness but we are seriously considering the Belmont Stakes for the colt," trainer Nick Gonzales said after unbeaten Bold Reasoning romped over a sloppy track to win the Withers Stakes at Aqueduct.

In two stakes for older horses, Colonial Farm's Champion won the $56,800 Dixie Handicap at Pimlico when Paul Mellon's Fort Marcy was disqualified and longshot Fleet Surprise beat two other outsiders to the wire in the $65,900 Los Angeles Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Charles Hargrove's and William Kosnick's Bold Reasoning, unraced at 2 but unbeaten now in five 1971 starts, snapped the three-stakes winning streak of Neil Hellman's highly regarded Good Behavior in the $58,100 Withers.

Good Behavior, who also will skip a shot at Canonero II in the Preakness and point for the Belmont, finished fourth in the field of eight 3-year-olds.

Vasquez put Bold Reasoning on the lead after the first quarter mile and the pair stayed there for a two-length victory over Tartan Stable's Highbinder, with Christiana Stable's Salem third.

Bold Reasoning, level-weighted with the other starters at 126 pounds, paid a winning mutual of $9.60 after racing the mile in 1:35.45 for his first stakes triumph.

Is Rained Out

MIDDLETOWN — An all-day rain forced postponement of the stock car racing program Saturday night at Orange County Fair Speedway. Track officials called the races at 2 p.m. in an effort to head off the drivers and fans who were prepared to make the trip.

Regular stock car action continues on May 15th, with 15 exciting events on tap, including three big features for the Late Models, Limited Sportsmen and powerful Modifieds. Race time continues at 7 o'clock with the pit gates open at 4 p.m.

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Unbeaten heavyweight boxer Ron Stander of Council Bluffs, Iowa, has signed to meet Lee Carr of New York May 24 at the Omaha Civic Auditorium.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Mike Wallace of Venice Calif., piloted his Austrian-built craft to victory Sunday in the 225-mile Marathon of Champions for single-engine outboard boats at Long Beach Marine Stadium.

Hawks 6th
In Track

OSWEGO — New Paltz track men, under the direction of Coach Ed Bell, took sixth place overall in the State University of New York Athletic Conference track meet at Oswego Saturday. Cortland took the overall title, with Brockport and Oswego finishing 2-3.

Ray Jackman was the leading individual performer for the Hawks as he ran second in the high hurdles in 15.6. Jackman's time broke the existing SUNYAC record for that event. He then finished third in the intermediates with a time of 58.1 seconds.

Ken Cseplo was third in the 200 in 23.1 while Jim Munz captured fourth place in the high jump with an effort of 6.2.

The New Paltz mile — relay squad of Cseplo, Barry Bloomfield, Munz and Jackman finished second in 3:30.2.

Ubleis Is Heading
For Driving Honors

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Adolf Ubleis, pronounced OOH-Blace, has turned harness racing's world driving championship into a rout.

The 33-year-old driver from Baden in Austria has won nine of the 17 races contested so far from such renowned reinmen as Billy Haughton of the United States, Herve Filion of Canada, Jean Rene Gougou of France, Cencio Ossani of Italy, Peter Wolfenden of New Zealand, Gordon Rothacker of Australia and Karsten Buer of Norway.

Unless there is a complete reversal of form in the remaining 13 races of the HTA series this week Ubleis will be officially installed as champion at Liberty Bell Park in Philadelphia Saturday night.

Ubleis, who started the nine track series with a triple at Roosevelt Raceway last Monday night, won three races at two Canadian tracks over the weekend. He won twice at Greenwood Raceway in Toronto Saturday night and scored with Officer's Attack Sunday night at Blue Bonnets in Montreal.

On Friday he won three at Saratoga Raceway. Ubleis now is far ahead with 526 in the over-all point standings which determines the championship. Haughton moved into second place with a victory.

The council offered the figures in support of an amendment to the state law authorizing off-track betting. The amendment would provide that off-track betting outside the city become an extension of the wagering operation of race tracks in specific areas, rather than public corporations as is the New York City operation.

The council has maintained ever since OTB was set up that it would siphon off money from the tracks and cost New York tax money.

Under New York State law, the state receives 12.5 per cent of the Roosevelt handle plus a half per cent of the breakage, a team in the City of Kingston amounting to a loss of $216,428.

Baseball League, according to compared to the first 31 days of this year and a drop of $576,056 compared with the same dates in 1969. The state has received $17,238 from OTB since it gets a half per cent of its 3.4 million gross handle.

Minor Blows
Key IL Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were seven homers in Sunday's International League doubleheader at Richmond, but two of the biggest hits were a pinch-hit double and a three-run single.

The two key blows gave the hometown Braves a 6-5, 7-2 sweep over the Tidewater Tides ended a five-game losing streak and boosted Richmond into fourth place in the league race.

Louisville's Colonels blasted Winnipeg, 14-5 in their first game, but the Whips took the nightcap 6-1. The Charleston Charlies beat the Toledo Mud Hens 7-3 in the only single game. Last-place Rochester was rained out at League-leading Syracuse for the second day in a row.

Ron Allen and Leroy Stanton had hit solo homers for Tidewater and Tommie Aaron and Darrell Evans had hit bases-empty drives for Richmond as the game went into the bottom of the sixth inning with the Tides leading 5-4.

Then Fred Velazquez hit the game's fifth homer to tie it, and pinchhitter Jim Breazeale doubled home an unearned run that won it.

The Braves put the second game away with six runs in the first inning with Oscar Brown's homer driving in the first two. With three runs in, two out and the bases loaded, winning pitcher Rick Kester lashed a single that sent home all three runners to cap the inning.

Kester blanked the Tides for six innings, but Stanton's second homer of the day—a two-run shot—ruined his shutout in the seventh. Kester finished with a five-hitter and struck out 11.

Louisville made a travesty of its opener with seven runs in the fourth inning and six more in the fifth at a time the Whips were leading 4-0. Ben Ogilvie hit two homers and drove in five runs and Jose Calero had a two-run roundtripper for the Colonels.

The Whips broke a 1-1 tie with five runs in the top of the seventh inning of the nightcap as two pitchers halted Louisville on four hits.

Rookie Bruce Kison won his third straight game with a six-hitter for Charleston, blanking Toledo on three hits the last five innings. Another rookie, Richie Zisk, singled home two runs in the sixth to put the Charlies ahead for good.

Superfecta Pays
Record $32,698

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (UPI)—After somewhat of a slow start, a betting innovation named the "superfecta" has taken hold at Monticello Raceway.

A lucky bettor correctly picked the post position numbers of the first four finishers, in order, in the 10th race on the card Saturday night. His $3 ticket returned a record $32,698.50. Only the night before, a bettor hit the jackpot for what was then a record $22,693.80.

The superfecta, introduced when Monticello began its 1971 season last month, had previously paid a top of about $4,500.

In the $5,000 feature Saturday night, Hammerin Hank, driven by Gilles Lachance, staved off a late rush by Captain Courageous to return mutuels of $24.40, $8.60 and $5.60 after pacifying the mile in 2:05.2. Bonnie Time Boy showed.

The 4-1 combination of Miss Milford and Speedy Quick returned $24 in the daily double. A crowd of 5,531 bet $438,139.

Live below your means.

If you'd like to get around the high cost of living, we have a suggestion:

Cut down on the high cost of getting around.

And buy a Volkswagen. It's only $1845

That's around $1200 less than the average amount paid for a new car today.

(Leave it in the bank. More's coming.)

A VW saves you hundreds of dollars on upkeep over the years.

It takes pints, not quarts, of oil.

Not one iota of antifreeze.

And it gets about 26 miles to the gallon. The average car (thirsty devil that it is) only gets 14.

So the more you drive, the more you save.

And chances are, you'll drive it for years and years. (Since we never change the style, a VW never goes out of style.)

Of course, a VW's not much to look at. So a lot of people buy a big flashy car just to save face.

Try putting that in the bank.

Donohue Averages 177 MPH

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Media, Pa., rabbit, Mark Donohue, returns to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway today after giving other drivers the weekend to chase speeds he chalked up in practice for the 500-mile race May 29.

Seven drivers took up the speed challenge Sunday, but none matched or topped the sizzling 177.901 miles per hour Donohue registered last Friday.

Donohue was away at Lime Rock, Conn., where he won the first Trans-Am road race of the season Saturday. He returned to Indianapolis Sunday only to find his car was not ready to run after a weekend tear down.

The weekend also featured the first serious crash at the Speedway and four spins on the 2 1/2-mile Speedway Oval.

Lee Roy Yarborough, Columbia, S.C., suffered minor burns Sunday when he crashed his Dan Gurney Eagle-Offenhauser against the outside wall in the first turn. The car was damaged extensively in the wreck and resulting fire.

The mishap followed a weekend filled with bobbles by drivers, including two Saturday by Jim Malloy, Denver, Colo. Malloy lost control in the No. 1 and No. 4 corners, but did not hit the wall.

Denis Hulme of New Zealand looped his car in the fourth turn without any damage as he was heading into the pits after runs in the 170 MPH range. Hulme spun in oil sopped on the track from a broken lube line on the racer driven by Mike Mosley, Brownsburg, Ind.

Sunday's second pride-injuring spin was by Bruce Walkup, St. Paul, Ind. He lost control without touching the wall in a 420-foot skid coming out of the third corner. Walkup was clocked on the preceding lap at 163 MPH.

Mosley registered a 174.4 before he snapped his oil line. He edged ahead of the other record his quick circuits around the 2 1/2-mile oval. Hulme in the second team McLaren, was clocked at 172.546 before his spin Sunday.

Peter Revson, New York City, upped his month's fastest average to 173.511 MPH in a team McLaren car identical to the one Donohue has used to the record his quick circuits around the 2 1/2-mile oval. Hulme in the second team McLaren, was clocked at 172.546 before his spin Sunday.

Your Horoscope

Tuesday, May 11

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A great day and evening to be articulate in expressing your views and enlarging plans far beyond their present boundaries. Excellent also for planning vacation arrangements and choosing a philosophy upon which to base future actions. Expand.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Reach a more satisfactory agreement with those whose ideas differ from yours. Study new data and use it wisely in your undertakings. Set aside some time for fun tonight.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You need to improve personal relationships and there is no better time for this than today. Financial arrangements need to be made which will give you greater security in the future. Don't be sarcastic.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to reach a better understanding with a difficult associate who is altogether too blunt and the future becomes brighter. Others are not thinking conservatively. Make allowances.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) This is a good day to get much accomplished efficiently, so start early and work late for best results. State your views to co-workers. They will then cooperate.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you contact people you like, you can make this a happy day for yourself and them. Improve love life by being devoted to mate. Avoid dangerous roads while driving.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Ideal day to spend some time in the quiet of your study. You can then be inspired with ideas about how you can accomplish a great deal. Show affection to mate and you will receive an excellent response. You have to make your own happiness now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Ideal day to get together with good friends, also to make new ones who can help enrich your life. Know what it is you want of a personal nature and go after such aims. Avoid one who always talks too much.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan ways you can acquire more of this world's goods. Talk matters over with one who is highly successful and adopt some of his methods. Activity is the keynote now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) This is an ideal day to accomplish much by contacting those who can help you with your aims. Create harmony wherever you go and cheer up others. Evening is best spent at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to act wisely if you are to gain personal desires; know exactly what you are going to say to them. Planning future success is fine, also, but do not confide in others. Keep poised.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contact allies who go along with your ideas and you will accomplish much today toward future advancement. Acquaintances you made recently can deepen into friendships. Show much courtesy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Listen to what a blunt bigwig has to suggest for your advancement and follow through with ideas. Bring your talents to the attention of right persons. Make the most of opportunities.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those blunt but honest individuals who will not be afraid to speak his or her mind on any subject at any time, and for this reason will be able to pull ahead in life better and faster than most others. Be sure to give the finest education you can in whatever may be the forte here, since there is bound to be both wealth and fame in this lifetime, with a full life well spent. A good conversationalist here, also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Quick Quiz

- Q—Do drums generally have a definite pitch?
A—Most drums are said to have indefinite pitch. The timpani or kettledrums are the only drums that can be tuned to a definite pitch.
- Q—Can any birds walk easily on snow?
A—When autumn comes, ptarmigan and some other species of grouse grow appendages on their toes which act as snowshoes in winter.
- Q—Why are ghost shrimp so called?
A—Because of their whitish-yellow color. Since they spend most of their life below the surface of the mud, no protective coloration is needed.
- Q—Which of the constellations that we can see contains the edge and which the center of our galaxy?
A—The edge of our galaxy nearest us lies in Taurus, and the hub of the galaxy is in Sagittarius.
- Q—Who was the only U.S. president to be inaugurated in two cities?
A—George Washington, inaugurated in New York City, April 30, 1789, and Philadelphia, Pa., March 4, 1793.
- Q—What are the two best-known radio distress signals?
A—The radio signal SOS in code, which is used at sea, and the aircraft call of "Mayday" sent over voice radio.
- Q—Does the Bible mention rice?
A—No, but ancient records show that the Greeks learned of it around 326 B.C., when Alexander the Great invaded India.
- Q—What former president of the Irish Free State was a native of New York City?
A—Eamon De Valera, born in New York City of a Spanish father and an Irish mother. He was president of the Irish Free State from 1932 to 1937.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

YELLED AT: (Q.) Sometimes my mother and I have very little communication. When I try to talk to her she yells at me and blames me for everything.

She is very unfair to me about such things as wearing slacks to school.

When she yells she calls me names. It makes me very nervous. What can I do?—Unhappy in Kenosha, Wis.

(A.) Many people—including some mothers—get into the habit of yelling. Usually they don't realize they are doing it, or how upsetting it is to those around them.

One time soon, in the cool of the day, when all is quiet and peaceful, discuss the yelling with your mother. Don't mention slacks or any of your other differences. Just the yelling.

MASCARA MESS: (Q.) I wear mascara—and it looks great on me. But when I wash my face it makes a big mess and I can't get it off.

What am I doing wrong?—Black Eyes in Missouri.

(A.) Before you wash your face at night, cleanse away your eye make-up gently with moisturized mascara remover pads.

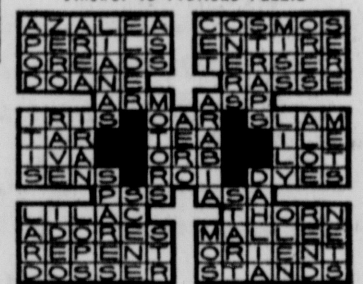

Most other techniques work poorly and have a tendency to age the skin around the eyes.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

"I'm glad he was born on Monday. They won't have to juggle dates when the nation honors him!"

Believe It or Not!

THE HONEST LIAR

GEN ADOLPHUS WASHINGTON GREELY (1844-1935) REJECTED 3 TIMES BY THE UNION ARMY BECAUSE HE REFUSED TO LIE ABOUT HIS AGE. FINALLY WAS ACCEPTED WHEN HE CHALKED AN "18" ON THE SOLE OF EACH SHOE AND WHEN ASKED HIS AGE SAID: "I'M OVER 18."

HE BECAME THE FIRST AMERICAN SOLDIER TO RISE FROM PRIVATE TO GENERAL.

Emmys—Too Many Thanks

NEW YORK (AP) — It took two solid hours to hand out a total of 30 Emmys Sunday night. The producers of the annual viewers' marathon, this year on NBC, cut the extraneous entertainment to a minimum, but nobody could do much about twin problems: Too many categories and thank-you speeches that went on and on.

None could quibble about the way the awards went.

Public Broadcasting's "Andersonville Trial," voted best dramatic program, was indeed a fine production. The stimulating "Senator" segment—cancelled after one season—of NBC's "The Bold Ones" led the drama sector with four Emmys, including one as the outstanding dramatic series.

CBS's amusing "Mary Tyler Moore" show romped off with the most honors—four—in the comedy area. "The Price," an adaptation of Arthur Miller's play, gave George C. Scott another acting award among the three voted the NBC drama special.

Johnny Carson worked smoothly and with hard, sharp wit as host. Most of the time, the production of the live show was smooth. Even so, among the three Big TV awards shows—Broadway's Tony, movie's Oscar and TV's Emmy, the broadcasting industry's annual big moment still runs a poor third as a television entertainment.

Although each episode of a television series has a name, most viewers think of a series as a sort of continued story. This year, in an effort to nail down the identity of certain programs up for honors, short clips from each were shown as names of nominations were read off. All this did was confuse both viewers and, often, performers on stage reading the nominations.

Bridge

Big Hand for 1970 Champs

By Oswald and James Jacoby
Jim: "This article will appear as our team starts to defend the World Bridge Championship which we won last year in Sweden. You will be nonplaying captain for the third straight year."

Oswald: "In 1969 the U.S. team just couldn't seem to play bridge. We beat France for third, but Italy won and China finished second."

Jim: "We didn't disappoint you in 1970, did we?"

Oswald: "No, but you certainly worried me at the start. We drew Brazil, the champions of South America, for our first opponent, just as we had in 1969. They jumped out to a lead in 1969. This year nothing happened on board 1. On board 2 Hammann and Lawrence stopped at three diamonds and made five odd. The game depended on a finesse and while I had no fault to find with Bobby Wolff opened three clubs. Not too bad a non-vulnerable bid against vulnerable opponents. Barros of Brazil overcalled with three diamonds and I tried four clubs."

Oswald: "I could see a big loss coming up. South was sure to go to three no-trump, but you stuck in a four club bid and now South had a really tough problem."

Jim: "Had I passed he surely would have bid a game. My four club bid gave him a problem and he finally solved it by bidding four hearts. Needless to say, we set him."

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES — Gerald Wescott (R) who recently celebrated his 25th anniversary with Radioear Corporation as that firm's representative for the Kingston area, is shown performing an audiometer hearing test on William Roberts, factory representative for the corporation. During the recent week-long anniversary celebration, Wescott performed similar tests, free of charge, on a number of local residents who have hearing deficiencies. Wescott, whose Hearing Aid Services office is located at 251 Clinton Avenue, also awarded a $100 discount certificate and five $50 discount certificates to area residents for use as credit on their next hearing aid purchase. Wescott supplies this area with a complete line of quality Radioear hearing aids suitable for all types of hearing losses. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Schneider Attends Gem Confab

KINGSTON George W. Schneider of Schneider's Jewelers, Inc., Kingston recently attended the 37th American Gem Society Conclave in Montreal, Canada.

The international meeting of selected retail jewelers, gemologists and educators who are titleholders and members of the society, attended seminar and laboratory programs and engaged in gem identification work, testing of various gem materials, new synthetics and simulants.

One of the highlights of the meeting was an address by Lionel Burke, De Beers Consolidated Mines, Limited of London, England, who gave a report on diamond marketing around the world. He reviewed the state of the industry at the moment, discussed production, and described the sales and marketing methods currently being used for diamonds.

Also scheduled was a report on "The Russian Treasures" by Edward Tiffany of Toronto, Tiffany, who was one of the gemologists who cataloged the Crown Jewels of Iran a few years ago in Teheran, recently toured Russia and viewed some of their gem treasures.

The American Gem Society numbers some 2,000 retail jewelers, in addition to their specialized and technical membership. Founded in 1934, the society is one of the first consumer protection groups in the United States. Membership is awarded only to jewelers who possess proven gemological knowledge and the highest ethical standards.
